ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

THE two small brothers must be kept separated in the car during a long drive. If not, they soon begin to quarrel over toys or books, or nothing at all.

Words lead to screams and blows, and a wild scramble that imperils the safety of the car.

It is wise to put one of the boys in the back, wedged against the cardboard boxes of supplies, and the other one in the front.

This time John, nine, is busy keeping a log of the journey, writing down the times in mileage with care. He still finds a minute to aim a blow at Michael, seven, and to stick out his tongue.

But log-keeping reduces the combat time. Young Michael has a damaged toe—compressed in a door by a playmate the night before. A doctor at Nanaimo hospital expresses belief that a bone is cracked, puts a colloid splint on it.

Now Michael has something to be proud of: looks smug at stops when his father carries him across the street for an ice cream at wayside stops.

He can't go into Courtenay swimming pool with his father and John, but this doesn't matter. Michael is the timid one. He can't swim yet. John plunges off the high board, ploughs through the water like a veteran—putting his father to shame.

It has been several years since Dad went off such a high board—but eventually he must do it. Meanwhile, the boy has tumbled down into the pool and climbed up a dozen times, grinning his big-tooth, fiendish little-boy grin.

Down goes his dad from the high board. It doesn't hurt much.

The two boys are watching B.C. Lions football team working out at their training camp. Now they have to be Lions themselves, charging around with a shoe for a ball, tackling one another, challenging dad to catch them.

On the road again, past bushes of ripe salmon-berries and huckleberries. The car must stop for berry-picking. Then there is the sea-shore; rock-oysters to be gathered; boats to be sailed.

That's John plunging into the cold water and swimming about as cheerily as a holidaymaker at Waikiki.

Each boy has a small sailing boat. The water looks too rough, so they sail them in a basin of water outside the auto tour cabin, having put an ant aboard each for crew.

They rush about the grass with other children playing ball and tag (Michael's sore toe forgotten), then go down to the beach and build forts of driftwood with sticks for guns.

Now Michael is the captain of a ship, which is an old stump covered with driftwood, high up on shore. "It's an old broken ship," he announces. "We're putting it in drydock to fix it up."

Daddy is forced to squeeze into both the driftwood forts for inspection. He was trying to write something in the cabin, but there is a beach fire to be built and wieners and marshmallows to be toasted.

At last the boys are coaxed to bed. In a few minutes these rough, quarrelsome young fellows are snuggled up with toy bears and dogs, having a sound sleep to be ready for the journey home.

AA, Clinics Ready To Help Alcoholics

By JOSEPH MOISER, MD

Dear Dr. Moiser: We have a daughter, now 21, who is an alcoholic. We have tried everything we know but nothing helps. Not even shock treatments. She goes back to drinking again. We have tried keeping money away from her but she gets it from her friends. She always comes back to mother and dad when she gets down and out.—M. S.

Drinking doesn't kill many people, at least not quickly, but it ruins more lives than any other disease I know.

I can offer these thoughts: You can't pamper an alcoholic. If you keep on picking him up after his spree, he isn't grateful.

Sometimes, and at painful length, an alcoholic at least sees himself as he is, and wants to change.

Alcoholics Anonymous, which I cannot praise too highly, will gladly give help, counsel, friendship, to anyone who really wants it. But AA is too wise to waste its time on people unless they really care.

Clinics on alcoholism are being organized in all our larger cities and in some smaller ones.

Dear Dr. Moiser: I read about traction being helpful for osteoarthritis of spine and neck. Where can this equipment be procured?—Mrs. A. B.

From a surgical supply house, on prescription from your doctor. I'm not being coy or "professional" about this. I'm just saying the only safe, effective and economical way is to have trained advice. If your own doctor isn't familiar with this, ask him to refer you to an orthopedist. He will.

Eight-Year-Old in Chains

KIM HUYN-CHUL

COUNTESS LISTOWEL
... danced on top

LEXINGTON, Ky.—Larry Mayes, 8, was found standing in the middle of a street—his feet chained together and held by a padlock.

He said his mother chained him because he had been in juvenile court for stealing a watch.

The child was found by Charles Powell, father of Lt. Larkin Powell of Juvenile Court. The latter charged the parents, who have 17 children, with neglect and contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

SEOUL, South Korea's military junta shook up the cabinet, naming Kim Huyn-chul premier succeeding Gen. Chung Hee Park, who remains junta leader. Kim, 61, was finance minister under the ousted Syngman Rhee.

PAMPLONA, Spain—Countess Listowel, 27, former Toronto jazz singer, shrugged off a fuss raised over an incident during the recent festival in which she danced on top of a car as the bulls went by.

NEW YORK—Big John Ormento, a bigwig in the narcotics underworld since 1937, was sent to prison for 40 years as a leader of an international dope ring. Twelve others got from 12 to 33 years.

GLENDALE, Calif.—Funeral services were held for Virginia Dare, former stage and film star, who died Sunday at Motion Picture Hospital.

COLUMBUS, Ohio—James Mason, 40, Winnipeg traffic officer attending a safety conference here, is in fair condition in hospital after being hit by a car. He'll be charged with jaywalking when he recovers.

OTTAWA—Liberal leader Lester Pearson returned to his desk after a post-election campaign holiday salmon fishing in New Brunswick.

NAMES

In the News

Castro, 19, of Chicago, hopes to make the army his career.

ALBANY, Ga.—Dr. Martin Luther King, Negro integration leader, and a fellow minister were jailed for 45 days for leading a street demonstration without a permit.

ROME—Gambrielle Beausant, a mezzo soprano who sang with Enrico Caruso, died at 72.

LOCKPORT, N.Y.—John Butler, 50, who spent 12 years in a mental hospital until recently judged sane to stand trial, was freed because officials could not read the old indictment, written by a man who since has died. Butler was charged with murdering a friend's wife.

LONDON—Liberian President William Tubman became the first Negro chief of state to occupy Buckingham Palace's suite of honor as he began his state visit to Britain.

SANTA MONICA—Michael Giesler, 24, son of the late film-lay attorney Jerry Giesler, pleaded guilty to drunken driving.

RALEIGH, N.C.—Henry Rich, 8, whose father builds telescopes, has enrolled on the freshman chemistry class at North Carolina State College.

BRASILIA—Brazil's parliament approved Francisco Bruchado de Rocha as premier, ending a two-week-old government crisis marked by rioting that killed 11 persons.

OTTAWA—Gilbert Rood, new Social Credit MP, was taken to hospital with suspected appendicitis after being sworn in as MP for Shefford, Que.

DETROIT—Clarence Copper, 28, who wrote a book in 1938 about how he kicked the drug habit, was jailed for five years for selling narcotics to a federal agent.

TOYKO—Prime Minister Ikeda proclaimed flood-stricken Kyushu Island a disaster area and ordered emergency funds to help it recover from 10 days of torrential rains that killed more than 100 persons.

Rioters, Police Clash in Italy

TURIN, Italy (AP)—Police in this industrial city battled strikers and rioters for 10 hours Monday and took more than 1,000 demonstrators into custody.

On the third day of disorders, rioters hurled stones at security forces, smashed cars and overturned street cars for temporary barricades.

No Inquest In Death On Highway

An inquiry, not an inquest, will be held into the death of a 77-year-old West Saanich woman in a Patricia Bay Highway car crash Monday.

Coroner Dr. J. H. Moore said no date has been set.

THAT OTHERS Killed was Mrs. Genevieve Bartleman of the West Saanich Indian Reserve. Two other women sustained head injuries and extensive bruises.

Central Saanich Police still are investigating the mysterious crash. A police spokesman said the car probably went out of control after it drove onto the gravel.

TV Spans Ocean In Surprise Leap

of American space technology, Minow said.

PRIVATELY OWNED The Telstar satellite is privately owned by AT & T. It cost $1,000,000 but the development program cost was estimated at around $70,000,000 and the phone company paid NASA $2,700,000 to launch it.

Congress is still deliberating legislation concerning whether communications satellite systems should be government controlled or whether private enterprise should be given a big role in their operation.

TOTAL TIME The total transmission time to Telstar and back was slightly more than 15 minutes.

One of the still pictures transmitted, a pool photo by United Press International and Associated Press, was a shot of the satellite itself.

The amplification and re-broadcast from Telstar went into a closed television circuit also, but it was just as sharp and bright on the TV sets of millions of Americans.

Kappel and Dr. Fiske, whose laboratories produced Telstar, were presented in one taped segment discussing the implications of today's accomplishments.

Kappel explained satellites are needed to replace undersea cables for telephone and television transmissions. He said he looked forward "to the day when the whole world will be ringed with satellites."

The scheduled trans-Atlantic programs to be transmitted July 23 by the three major American networks—CBS, NBC and ABC—will include live remote pickups from several points in the nation. The return live 15-minute program will be produced by the 16-nation European broadcasting union.

NOT JOINED YET The Soviet Union and Communist satellites have not yet joined in such scheduled exchanges.

The Telstar satellite, crammed with 10,000 parts, was lofted from Cape Canaveral at 4:35 a.m. EDT. It immediately went into perfect orbit ranging from 600 to 3,500 miles from the earth at a speed of 16,000 miles an hour.

Demonstration Set for Regina

cases left the province in protest against the medical care plan, have made no official comment on the rally.

But Dr. J. F. C. Anderson, former president of the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons, said, "We (doctors) are particularly heartened by the support given by the people to the doctors." He did not specifically mention the KOD Committee.

Seven ministers of Regina United Churches said the rally is "potentially dangerous and seeks to circumvent normal processes of democratic government." They urged all Christians in the province to refrain from associating themselves with the demonstration.

Clarence Lyons, Saskatchewan field representative of the United Packinghouse, Food and Allied Workers Union (UCLA), warned against the demonstration. In a statement, he said it had explosive possibilities.

Hans Taal, a vice-president of the KOD Committee, said at least 500 cars and two buses would go from Saskatoon. He said there would be a minimum of 3,000 Saskatoon residents in the demonstration.

Meanwhile, plans proceeded for a mass demonstration in front of the legislative buildings today in which thousands are expected to ask the government to suspend the controversial act.

The provincial Keep-Our-Doctors Committee said it has organized automobile caravans from numerous centres to bring demonstrators to Regina. The rally was to begin at 2 p.m. CST.

The rally was expected to last three hours and include speeches by committee leaders and a statement to the government.

Premier Woodrow Lloyd, whose CCF government implemented the medical care plan July 1, said he would not meet the demonstrators outside the legislative buildings. But he indicated he was willing to see executive members of the KOD Committee in his office.

Various spokesmen have appealed for a quiet demonstration. Deputy Police Chief James Little of Regina said he thought the major police problem would be traffic control. He expected no violence.

Many stores and other businesses in the province planned to close to allow employees to turn out for the demonstration.

West Will Soften Strong Demands In Test-Ban Talks

WASHINGTON (CP)—The U.S. and Britain are reported prepared to yield further ground in their inspection and control demands in new attempts to negotiate a nuclear test-ban treaty with Russia.

These new three-power nuclear test-ban talks will take place at Geneva when the 17-country East-West disarmament conference resumes Monday after a month-long recess.

While officials declined to discuss details of new Western positions which were worked out here with Canada represented, the general view was that there would be "further modifications" in the Western disarmament proposals, particularly in test ban controls.

BY SEISMIC MEANS

These would be in line with preliminary conclusions reached by the U.S. defence department, indicating improvements in detection of underground nuclear explosions by seismic means, both by surface instruments and those sunk in deep holes such as abandoned oil wells.

POSTS IN RUSSIA

An official said this could lead to a proposed Western reduction in the number of control posts required to make a test ban effective and particularly the number that would be required on Soviet soil.

The U.S. previously proposed a world-wide system of 180 control posts, including about 30 in Russia.

Russia claims all these controls and inspections are unnecessary; that they are nothing more than Western attempts to spy on Soviet military defenses.

World Protests

Test Branded Barbaric Act

LONDON (UPI)—America's high altitude nuclear test in the Pacific received editorial backing in Western Europe Tuesday, but was denounced in Japan as a "barbaric act."

U.S. COMPELLED

Moscow Radio said "all mankind" protested the spectacular blast Monday, but Communist China was strangely silent.

The London Daily Mail

declared editorially "national security... compelled" the U.S. to go through with the test. The German newspaper Frankfurter Allgemeine said the Johnston Island test shot was a "forced countermeasure" to Soviet nuclear tests.

In Japan, Sankai Shimbun said in a headline, "Hell Bomb Rages in Paradise."

TEST EVIL DEED

"We protest many times against the injustice of the United States," the newspaper said. It called the test an "evil deed."

The Japanese foreign office called the shot regrettable and reaffirmed its intention to seek compensation for any damage suffered by Japanese nationals.

Anti-bomb demonstrators clashed with police outside the American embassy in London's Grosvenor Square. About 20 persons were arrested as the crowd chanted: "No more tests, no more tests."

STUPID FOOLS

Canon John Collins, president of the campaign for nuclear disarmament, called Americans "stupid fools."

In Australia, the Sydney Daily Mirror said the test reflected "recklessness" and "no amount of scientific juggling with words, no assurance from however high a level can remove feelings of deep unease throughout the world."

More U.K. Doctors Start Steady Flow

LONDON (CP)—Nine British doctors left for Saskatchewan Tuesday to provide emergency medical services in areas where the province's practitioners have closed their offices to defy the government's medical insurance scheme.

A spokesman for the Saskatchewan medical care plan in London said they were part of the increasing flow of British doctors who have applied for the temporary posts offered in the province.

SIGNED CONTRACTS

The spokesman added that 23 practitioners signed contracts Tuesday and "groups of doctors will be going out almost every day from now on."

The Medical Care Commission's emergency office in London has received more than 300 queries from physicians responding to the province's nationwide appeal for help.

LEGAL TALKS

Another development was that George Taylor of Saskatoon, legal member of the Saskatchewan Medical Care Commission, spent the day interviewing representatives of the various medical organizations. No information was immediately available on his talks.

One British medical journal—Lancet—said Tuesday it had lifted a ban on advertising from the province's new medical commission.

Both Lancet and the British Medical Journal declined in late June to accept advertisements offered by the commission.

At the time, the British Medical Association said the action was done as a "fraternal courtesy" at the request of the Canadian Medical Association.

'You've Made a Point Now Back to Work'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Thirty-five UBC professors have signed a letter urging Saskatchewan doctors to call off their medicare boycott.

The letter said the doctors have made their point by refusing to work. They should return to practice and try to settle differences through negotiation.

College Morale Low

Scores Stay on Job Rural Service Best

SASKATOON (CP)—Dr. Mark Baltzan, emergency services coordinator at St. Paul's Hospital here, said Tuesday there were at least 33 doctors in Saskatchewan working under the government medical care plan.

Dr. Baltzan, speaking at a press conference, said country points generally reported emergency service arrangements were holding up extremely well.

Dr. F. C. Anderson of Saskatoon, former president of the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons, expressed concern about reports of deteriorating morale at the University of Saskatchewan medical school.

He said that 11 members of the college staff have already left. He did not say whether they had left permanently.

Also announced was the departure of Dr. A. D. Kelly, general secretary of the Canadian Medical Association, who had spent several days here with the college officials. He will be replaced here by Arthur Pearl, assistant general secretary of the CMA. No explanation was given for the switch.

Indians Surrounded By Chinese Troops

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Communist Chinese troops have encircled an Indian army outpost in the Galwan Valley of the Ladakh area of Kashmir. It was announced last night.

The Indian government has lodged a strong protest against the action of the Chinese troops.

THREAT TO POST

The text of the protest was released here Tuesday soon after the Indian external affairs ministry handed it over to the Chinese ambassador.

The Indian protest said the Chinese action posed "a threat to the Indian post by the Chinese intruders."

It accused the Chinese of entering the Galwan Valley which had so far been entirely patrolled by Indian forces.

VACATE, SAY NOTE

India's note accused the Chinese troops of advancing into the Galwan Valley, a distance of 25 miles into Indian territory from the boundary line shown in Chinese maps of 1956—and said this was a "serious violation of Indian territory."

"It must be vacated," the note said.

The note added that about 400 Chinese soldiers encircled the outpost and moved up "threateningly" within 50 yards of the Indian position.

UN 'Warns' Katanga With Jets

ELISABETHVILLE (Reuters)—United Nations jet fighters flew over Elisabethville Tuesday in what observers considered was a deliberate show of strength on the eve of the second anniversary of the secession of Katanga province.

The UN spokesman in The Congo, Norman Ho, said the planes were on routine flights from their base at Kamina and should not be considered a provocation.

But observers here thought the purpose of the flights was to give the Katangans a warning that the United Nations is still in the area in considerable force.

Big Rumpus in the Zoo

'Tarzan' Held in Berlin

WEST BERLIN (Reuters)—A Spaniard and two monkeys swung from tree to tree holly pursued by firemen and police Tuesday in the biggest rumpus West Berlin's zoo has seen.

Police said the 30-year-old Spaniard waded through a pool to Monkey Island after being spotted wandering about in the early hours by a zoo attendant.

Two longarmed Indian gibbons joined the Spaniard in trying to evade the firemen and police who were called.

As the Spaniard and the monkeys climbed one tree, the firemen crossed the pool in a rubber dinghy, climbed a rock and found the three had crossed to another tree.

One fireman was injured in the final struggle to capture the man.

Reluctant Truckers End Ontario Strike

TORONTO (UPI)—Truck drivers in Toronto, Hamilton and London reluctantly returned to work Tuesday after the announcement of a new peace vote.

Local president Kenneth McDougall said at a stormy meeting he would ask international president James Hoffa to conduct a mail referendum on the proposed settlement of 26¢-cents an hour. The votes would go to 8,200 members in Toronto, Hamilton, Kitchener, St. Catharines and Windsor.

McDougall warned picketing would be illegal and members continuing the six-week-old strike would forfeit union protection.

The Question

THE 13-YEAR-OLD war of words between two dictatorial regimes, each purporting to be the true government of the people of China, threatens momentarily to erupt into a battle of bullets—or worse.

For a month or more the Chinese Communists have been massing troops and stock-piling war material along that part of the mainland overlooking the Nationalist-held islands of Quemoy and Matsu, while at the same time the Chiang Kai-shek government has reinforced the islands' garrisons and stepped up its air and naval patrols in the Strait of Formosa.

Despite the fact that each side has staunchly maintained that these actions are purely defensive, tension continues to mount until it has now reached a pitch rivaling that of 1949, when Generalissimo Chiang and his defeated army barely escaped annihilation at the hands of the victorious Communists.

Never once since that time has either side relaxed in its determination to conquer the other regardless of the cost to their own people or to the world itself. In the past the two have been held in check only by the intervention of the United States and Russia—but the ability of these great powers to curb their charges may now be seriously weakened.

It is no secret that the United States has been forced on several occasions to exert all its influence over the Chinese Nationalist government to prevent Chiang Kai-shek from launching an all-out, no-holds-barred invasion of the Communist mainland stronghold.

Until now the Nationalists have reluctantly abided by the mutual defence pact they signed in 1954 with the American government, which stipulates that Washington's permission is necessary before any attempt to invade Red China is made. As recently as a year ago the Kennedy administration—still smarting under its participation in the Cuban fiasco—turned thumbs down on an invasion request by the Chiang government. It has been since reported that the Washington decision at that time caused a serious rift between the two administrations which even now has not wholly healed.

Whether this is true or not, the fact is fast becoming obvious that the United States is experiencing more and more difficulty in attempting to maintain control over the situation.

It is no less likely that Russia has had, and is still having, similar troubles with its equally recalcitrant Chinese ward.

Thus does the double-barrelled—and loaded—question of the moment appear to be: How long can Kennedy restrain Chiang and how long can Khrushchev restrain Mao?

Judging by their recent statements on the explosive situation, neither of the two world leaders seems to be too sure of the answer.

Not Convincing

THE SEATTLE world's fair will be enhanced for a week in September by a military tattoo staged by contingents of the Canadian armed forces, but Victoria's centenary celebrations will be denied the same attraction. Something seems a bit askew, as the poet has it, "in the state of Denmark."

The explanation from the defence department is that a performance here is too difficult to arrange for a variety of reasons, none of which sounds very convincing nevertheless. It would cost too much, there is the problem of accommodation and meals, and it would interfere with the troops' leave.

As to cost, one agrees that the national treasury is none too affluent at the moment, but troops have to be paid no matter where they are and what they are doing. The Seattle fair is underwriting their appearance there and providing the facilities required, but that is what would be expected. It is playing host to an attraction from another country.

In their own homeland the situation with Canadian troops should be equated on a different level. This is a garrison area and something must be amiss if the military establishments here couldn't take care of a military tattoo contingent for a few days. Nor does it seem that leave would be seriously impeded by capping the Seattle show with a repeat performance here, practically next door.

There will be keen disappointment over this in local circles, which rightly view the civic centenary as calling for some degree of national co-operation. And the readiness for all occasions which one assumes to be part of the military set-up should easily make such participation possible.

The defence department should think again, and not withhold from Victoria a favor it grants to Seattle.

R.S.M. A.W.O.L.?

THE DREADFUL American malady of "Momism" is apparently contagious. Recent reports indicate that it has spread across the Atlantic and has infected—of all institutions—the British army.

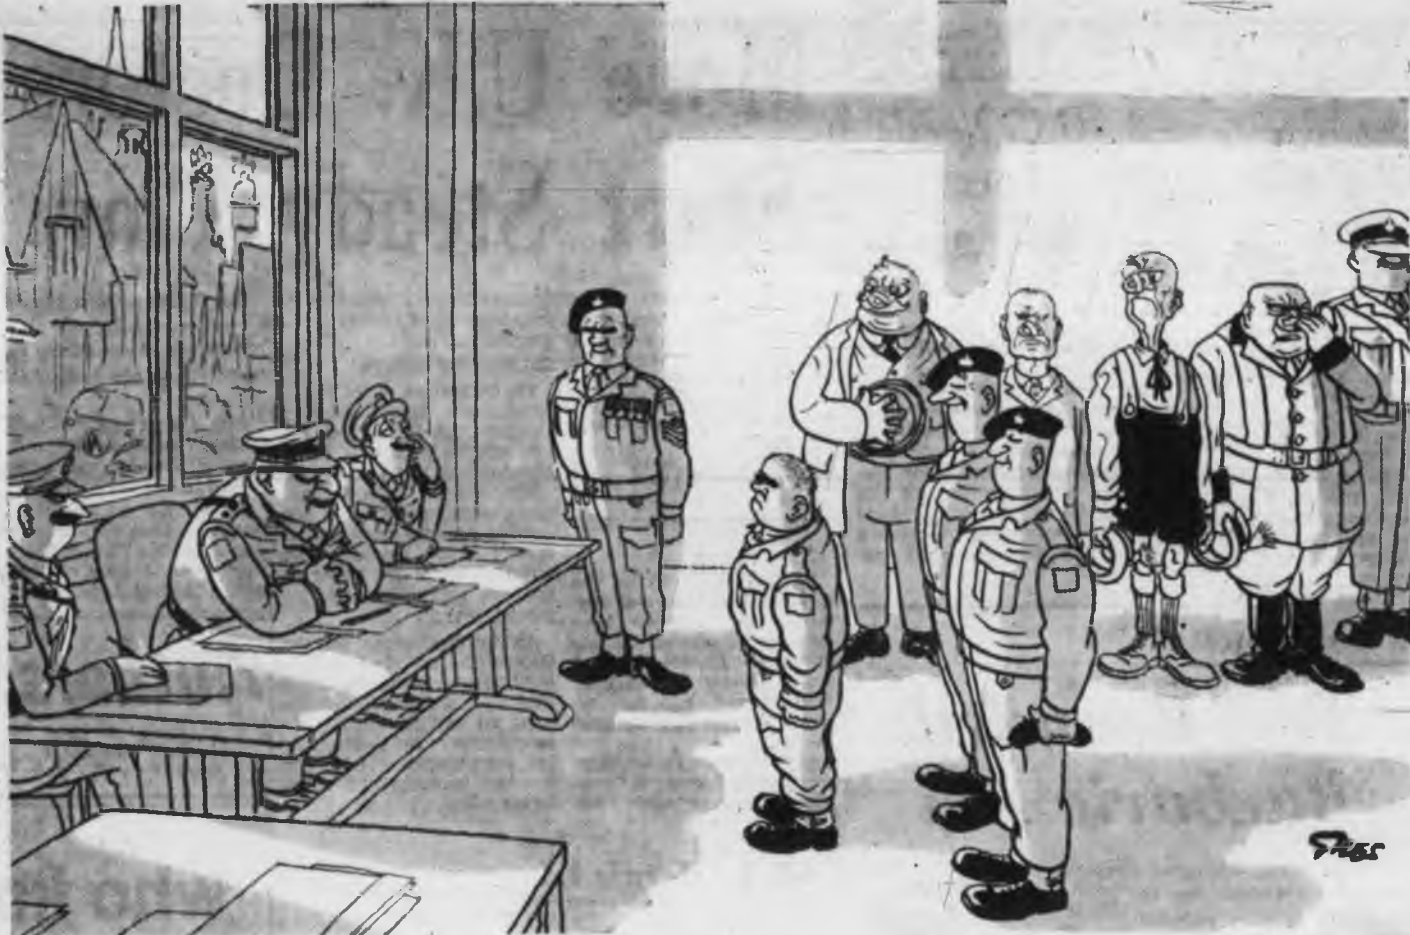

"Momism" is described by psychiatrists in the United States as the extension of a mother's protective instinct and control over her children long after they should have flown the coop. According to them, this has had a particularly terrible effect on the American male offspring who apparently finds it easier to put up with Mom's apple pie than learn to make his own.

Though it would be unfair to suggest that the United States has more than its fair share of Mom-complex-ridden young men (or mummy's boys, as they would be known in Great Britain), certainly the British army, until now, has been the last place for them.

But that was yesterday. Today word is that the British army—which for so many years has enjoyed the reputation of having the toughest and best disciplined fighting soldiers in the world—has succumbed to the dread disease.

This week three recruits are going into the army—and the army has invited their mothers to join them for a week. The regimental adjutant has explained to the press that the mothers have been invited along just to see how their sons are treated in the early days of their recruit training.

And so an era has passed. It is to be hoped that the mothers enjoy their visit. It is too much to hope that the Regimental Sergeant Major will, that is, unless his mother has been invited as well.

YOU would read in the paper, maybe, about the ghosts that haunt old castles in Britain. I suppose even you've gone looking for them. I have, I admit, even though I haven't yet caught up with one. But if I am to believe the tourist folders they are there, without a doubt.

The world of today isn't exactly receptive to ghosts. Not to the kind we're talking about anyway. I suspect there are a few scurrying around in the wake of the election, the ghosts of a lost cause or a missed opportunity, but that's another matter.

Although, perhaps, they are the kind of ghosts that really do impinge on mankind.

But let's form for castles and places of venerable image to have a ghost, either wringing its hands in regret or, according to a favorite song, with its head tucked underneath its arm. This helps to pack in the crowds and maintain them in residence.

I think the songwriters are a bit rough on poor Anne Boleyn, though.

But even if they are from Missouri, a state which seems to have exported an amazing number of sceptics, most people will line up at any ancient castle full of expectation. They don't believe in ghosts yet ...

After all you never can tell. And how wonderful to come back and tell the home folks that you actually did see one of these spectral shades.

Shakespeare believed in ghosts, as you know, and he was quite a worldly chap. He put one in Hamlet, anyway, and you will remember that Horatio asked if it were looking for the treasure it had left behind on earth.

It is because of this that the ghost walks on pay day, although I suppose your pay would turn up even if unaccompanied by any ghostly visitation. But you see the link you have with ghosts every week or whenever it is that you are rewarded for your virtues.

This is a scientific era of course and one is not supposed to be up and coming if one believes in shadowy spectres, or anything you can't grasp or prove by statistics. Except the air we breathe. No one disputes its verity even if it is invisible, doesn't smell, and you can't hear it.

I rather believe myself there's a sense of wonder lingering in mankind that can't be downed by all the learned language of science and its manifold pragmatism. The intangibles still have a strong hold on people; there's a yearning for things unseen that's been in human breasts since the beginnings of time.

It would really be a sad thing if there weren't a seed thing if there weren't a seed thing. That will be why tourists flock to historic ruins in the hopes of seeing their ghostly occupants. This restores their confidence.

Probably they have, too, enough of their own ghosts; the kind that go under another name—conscience. Admittedly some individuals keep these under remarkable control and as well hidden as the castle ghosts, but for ordinary folk the ghosts of conscience are liable to walk any day.

The ghosts of follies, of ill-considered action, of things one would like to forget.

Perhaps it's to get away from these that we visit old castles.

South Africa Establishes Course

By BERTHA SOLOMON from Johannesburg

THE first full session of the Parliament of the Republic of South Africa has ended and it is now possible to see the general direction in which the government is travelling—and its ultimate aim. The government has decided to go in to larger against its enemies within and without.

To that end the first step was obviously the enlarging and modernizing of defence. As a result there was a record defence budget, a lengthening of the period of compulsory training for all young men, and a tightening-up and enlarging of the police forces.

Then, in a last effort to justify apartheid and put himself right with the world outside, the prime minister suddenly announced that he was granting self-government to the Transkei (a native area), which would be the first Bantustan. To the government's disappointment the world outside showed no such excitement over this move.

In fact it received it with caution, a caution amply justified when the government drew-up a constitution for the Transkei showed that its proposed parliament will be little more than a glorified local authority, looking after roads and agriculture, health, etc., while all real power such as the control of finance, foreign affairs, defence and justice will remain safely with the republic.

The democratic theory of one man one vote went to board committee. Of the "parliament" of 129, a bare quarter, 33 at all, will be elected. The ex-Transkeian Africans now living in the republic—some have been there for two or three generations and know nothing of the Transkei—will elect nine to represent them. Of the remainder, some 68 Tribal chiefs will be nominated by the government. These chiefs in turn will nominate 28 members, one from each area of the Transkei, while another 26 will be elected from each area.

Then on passing the government stepped to pass an amendment to the population registration act to make sure that there would be no more "Song" cases. That was a case in which one Song, a Chinese born in Canton, went to court to claim that he should be classified as white on the grounds that he "associated with whites and was accepted as white." As the law stood, the decision was right. But if acceptance as white was the test on which the decision was based, well the implications might be serious for the government racialists. Who knew, after all, how many more Chinese encouraged by Mr. Song's success, and worse, how many very light Coloureds, might succeed in getting white status. Now a man who objects to his classification and claims to be "white" must not only be accepted as such, but must "appear to be white." The emphasis, in fact, has been shifted from a man's associates to his appearance.

But as any South African knows, "appearance" is a very deceptive guide in racial matters. Suppose that one day some enterprising citizen challenges the right of some members of Parliament now sitting in the House on the ground that they are "in appearance not white." What then? Would there be another attempt to define the indefinable?

From the bitterness engendered among the Coloureds by this act the government, with its usual strategy, moved to the moods of these people, their varying health, real or imagined, are not their own affair—Signor de Laurentis points out. ## The Nationalists Tighten the Reins fast in the closing weeks of the session to show in two major measures the other walls of its larger plan. The first, the anti-sabotage bill introduced by Mr. Vorster, the tough minister of justice and the generally assumed successor-designate to Dr. Verwoerd, aroused a pitch of hostility rare in these days in a South Africa now almost shock-proof from years of Nationalist policies.

According to that eminent independent authority, the International Commission of Jurists, in this bill (now already an act) "South Africa will have taken a major, if not final, step towards the elimination of all rights of the individual and the rule of law." It "reduces the liberty of the citizen to a degree not surpassed by the most extreme dictatorship of the left or the right." Strong words indeed. But the commission, which is a non-governmental organization supported by 4,000 lawyers and judges in 60 and more countries, goes further and adds: "This measure is a culmination of a determined and ruthless attempt to enforce the doctrine of apartheid, and is not worthy of a civilized jurisprudence."

On the one hand there is the mailed fist, in the strong army. On the other there is the battering down of all independent criticism and opposition to the government.

It is an appalling situation to contemplate, if only because where all the ordinary safety valves of free criticism are shut down, the hot air suppressed is bound to result ultimately in a violent explosion, though when is another matter.

During the course of the heated debate on the bill, there was an ugly episode. One Robey Leibbrandt, convicted Nazi spy and saboteur, who was sentenced to life imprisonment under the Smuts regime and released by the Nationalists when they came into power in 1948, sent a vicious telegram to a Jewish member of Parliament who was opposing the measure; at the same time he announced that he had a "private army" which was working with the police to eliminate Communists.

In the parliamentary and general uproar that resulted, the minister flatly refused to disassociate himself with the telegram, or to deny Leibbrandt's statement about his "private army." Since Mr. Vorster was himself interned during the war as a Nazi sympathizer, this refusal has an ominous ring in many ears.

The other of the major measures rushed through at the session end was a bill to standardize education on "Christian National lines." This bill, too, aroused fierce opposition both inside and outside the House, particularly among educationalists.

But the National Advisory Council that the act creates has been the government's dream child for years, for it aims at moulding all the children of the country into one pattern, neatly stamped, and indoctrinated with the Nationalist ideology.

When the campaign for the republic was launched last year (and won with a mere four per cent majority) the prime minister's constant argument throughout the campaign was that a republic would produce unity at last between "Brit and Boer," and bring a final end to bitterness. He was so passionate about it that some of his opponents began to think that perhaps the prime minister "had something" there. And even after he took South Africa out of the Commonwealth, many of them suspended judgment and awaited developments.

This session has made clear the kind of unity Dr. Verwoerd and his associates had in mind. It is a modernized version of Kruger's Republic, expanding from its old Transvaal boundaries to cover all South Africa. Given a few more years in office, as is highly probable, there seems little if anything now to balk the government's aim.

I WAS glad that the Labor Party had second thoughts about chucking out Earl Russell, Canon Collins, Lady Woodton and Lord Chorley from the fold.

They were taking their line the Bomb arguments to Moscow and had got mixed up with a Communist jamboozie named "The World Peace Congress." And although I suspect that this occasion may be as phoney as a glass eye, the Labor Party cannot afford to expel these dissidents.

They may be wrong, but their place is not in the wilderness for they are honest people.

Mr. Gaitskell's party—if I may put it that way—has been plagued with non-conformists. But they have been good non-conformists.

They have seen their ill-starred lights and have followed them.

But, like the hair shirts up on the backs of the saints, they must be worn, and the Socialist body politic is, in the end, the better for enduring and containing these tribulations.

Cuban Communists

The Old And New

from New York

ALL Cubans are Marxist-Leninist now, but some are more Fidelist than others," said the Western Communist in Havana referring to the relationship between the members of Fidel Castro's July 26 Movement (the "New Communists") who fought Fulgencio Batista, the deposed military dictator in 1959, and carried the Cuban revolution on to Marxism-Leninism, and the old Cuban Communist Party stalwarts (the "Old Communists") who faithfully followed Moscow's line through the last few decades, collaborated with Batista and jumped nimbly on the Castro victory bandwagon at the last moment.

There was a time when the Cuban Communist Party dismissed Castro as a mere "putschist." Now the party leaders are collaborating with cautious enthusiasm. Neither can do without the other.

The Popular Socialist (Communist) Party (PSP) was never a party of the masses. It drew its strength from a comparatively small section of Cuba's industrial workers. Its actual membership has been estimated at 100,000, of whom 20,000 are active, militant members. But it has the disciplined organization and the political know-how. No visitor to Cuba could doubt that he is in a Communist country—his eyes are confronted with banners and neon signs telling him so.

But in spite of the constant ratiocations of Cuba's political orientation—by radio, by the press, by conversation, the average Fidelista is hard put to explain what Marxism-Leninism means. Time and again it was told by younger young Cubans that they had become Marxist-Leninists "because Fidel led the way."

That restless, apparently directionless personality, Castro himself, has said that he couldn't get beyond page 300 of Marx' Das Kapital. Nevertheless, although Fidel may not be ideologically expert, the effect on social and foreign policy is the same as if he had mastered all the Communist text books. The nation-wide Communist indoctrination process, although basic, has probably gone far enough to make it impossible, even for Castro, to change Cuba's ideological direction, even if he wanted to.

In spite of this, and partly because of it, all has not been well between Castro and his PSP allies. A major clash between the July 26 Movement and the PSP was narrowly averted thanks to the flexibility of the PSP leaders—earlier this year. Last year it was decided to unite the revolutionary parties in one monolithic group—the "Integrated Revolutionary Organizations" (ORI)—which will eventually be succeeded by a "United Party of the Socialist Revolution."

The National Directorate of ORI became the politbureau of the Revolution. ORI committees were formed throughout the island. There were (and are) ORI representatives in every town, village, factory and government institution. In order to control such a vital and ubiquitous political instrument, an "old Communist" (faithful and member of the national directorate, Amilbal Escalante, began to dislodge PSP protégés into strategic administrative positions. As July 26 men were ousted to make room for them, there was not only administrative dislocation but also bitter resentment from the Fidelistas. PSP tactics were brought to Castro's attention. A violent and public denunciation of Escalante by Castro led to his exile in March this year. Escalante is now contemplating his failure in Moscow.

But the failure was not Escalante's alone; the very nature of all Communist Party organizations means that other top PSP leaders were aware of his backstairs manoeuvres and the risks that accompanied them. But only Escalante suffered disgrace. And although Castro informed the Cubans that there were 500 other "Anabals in the island and implied sweeping purges, only a handful seem to have lost their jobs since March.

The Russians took Escalante's dismissal with good grace. They do doubt realize that Castro's dominating figure is far more important to them politically than any "old Communist" stalwart whose popular appeal in Cuba or elsewhere in Latin America is negligible.

The PSP traditionalists may not approve of the erratic pragmatism of their "New Communist" leader. But at the moment Castro personifies the Revolution; and the PSP has no alternative but to string gamely along. After all, the PSP leaders imply, we may not have our hands on the steering wheel, but the bus is going in the right direction.

Medicare Crisis

It appears to me the state is responsible for two essential services, namely education and health of its people.

To this end great sums of public monies have been spent in providing equipped institutions with qualified and efficient staffs which have enabled all professional classes to obtain degrees of status, with respect to teachers at the pleasure of the department of education. I see no reason why the MD should not operate under the same restriction.

During the great crises of this country ranks of all men regardless of their social or professional standing were united as on body for the sake of the empire's freedom and security and solidarity. They did so at great personal cost—service and humanity were their watchwords.

The question on my mind is—what does the individual owe his country and what does the country owe the individual? Certainly class domination has no place in a true democracy.

H. FISHER, BA, ED.

Too Much Control

It is sad when a government of any province—or country—shows signs of too much dictatorship control in their ideas—however good they may seem to be—and it is sad when a professional group of men, who are devoted to the relief of suffering can only oppose these dictatorship methods by going on strike.

I would have liked to see the doctors openly standing by their beliefs and continuing to carry on their practice in their own offices in their own way—but I guess they might have been advised legally that this would be open rebellion against a government—yet if they had been imprisoned because of holding to their beliefs of giving better service, I am sure the public would have been in sympathy. We must all, as a whole stand up for freedom—otherwise why oppose methods in other countries that take this way?

MRS. G. ANDERSON.

Through Negotiation

My family in England and in Canada have most of them been in the medical profession. Not one of them would think of striking. I have not read the Saskatchewan medical care act, but there are probable clauses to which the doctors object. These should be changed over a period of time through negotiation, not by strike. The medical profession has lost their dignity and the respect and confidence of the public in Saskatchewan. Doctors are in the same category as the clergy, nurses, social service workers and school teachers—only more so, because of the Hippocratic oath which the Saskatchewan doctors have taken. There is only one way for them to solve the situation—carry on and negotiate. But of course with their high fees and "split fees" it is evident they are too greedy.

DISGUSTED

Power of a Few?

The strike of the Saskatchewan doctors forces upon us the question: are we to have a government of the people for the people by the people or government of the people for the doctors by the doctors? Are we to have democracy or an oligarchy; a form of government in which the power is vested in a few? A government elected on the promise to bring in a medical care plan has no right to ignore the expressed will of the majority. Today, in the never ending battle against disease and death, the majority in Saskatchewan expects every doctor to do his duty. Will recorded history mark against them that they did not?

J. MITCHELL.
Harriet Road.

Vow Has Vanished

Now that the medical profession has come out of its shell, and the searchlight of facts are being aired, there are some points the layman would like to know. We hear—"Have you seen the doctor?" "No, I can't afford medical attention." "Ask YOUR doctor?" "No! he wouldn't tell you anyway!" and so it goes. As a pioneer doctor's widow, it seems well to remind the striking profession that we the pioneers have made it possible for MDs to live in luxury and spend time on the golf links, and refuse to answer night calls. That old sacred vow has vanished from the once-honored profession. What do the MDs want when they talk of freedom? Is it more money, or the standard of ethics which once was associated with the saving of life and the research of knowledge?

A. CAROLYN BAYFIELD.
1055 Foul Bay Road.

Refusal a Barrier

Lost in darkness, found in light—Compassion is the first law of medicine! It's of the spirit—without this, it's not medicine. How can a doctor refuse to treat his fellow man and be a doctor? Refusal constitutes a barrier between doctor and patient. The spirit, where can they meet? It's time to negotiate on this basis and not on any other. Medicare concedes government of the people, by the people, for the people and not for any special group. If is cannot be agreed in principle that one man's life is as valuable as another, then medicine has no excuse for being. All in all, the people's interests are at stake.

ALAN GREIG.

Example Successful

It would seem that the general sentiment expressed therein (Colonist July 7) is similar to the feelings of a group of unhappy school boys disappointed over the loss of an expected holiday. One learned doctor tells of the tragic impasse in Saskatchewan, this is only true because the doctors through their organization refuse to follow the example of Health Region No. 1, which they themselves do not deny, has been successfully operating for 16 years. This comprises a very large area in the south west, possibly one-eighth of the whole province, with many historically famous towns, hundreds of smaller towns and villages, without a single report of a doctor or a hospital going bankrupt, and the people were all satisfied, for the cost per family for hospitalization and doctors care was $80 annually.

Banks Stocks Restored To Favor

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market surged ahead Tuesday morning, levelled off by early afternoon and eased slightly near the close.

Industrials climbed strongly until they were more than six index points ahead, but closed with a gain of five points. Base metals and western oils maintained moderate strength all day, with golds showing a marked decline.

Banks led the main list higher with Montreal, Nova Scotia and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce all about 1 1/2. Royal Bank up a point and Toronto-Dominion 1/2.

Interprovincial Pipe Line climbed two points to 74. Price Brothers 2 1/2 to 43 1/2 and Atlas Steel 1 1/2. Walker - Gooderham rose 1 1/2. Dominion Foundries and Steel 1 1/2 and Bell Telephone 1/2.

In base metals, International Nickel gained 1/2. Hudson Bay Mining & Lbratory 1/2, while Denison slipped 1/2. Speculators featured a Jacobus' three-cent gain to 78 cents on a volume of more than 200,000 shares.

Western oils saw Pacific Petroleum rise 1/2. Home A 1/2 and Hudson's Bay 1/2. Calgary and Edmonton dipped 1/2.

Papers Move Up

MONTREAL (CP) — Gains outnumbered losses by nine to five. Trading was active in industrials but light in mines.

Banks maintained early gains with Bank of Nova Scotia at 62 and Imperial Bank of Commerce at 55 1/2 each adding 1/2. Bank of Montreal up 1/2 to 56 1/2 and Royal Bank 1/2 to 66 1/2.

Utilities were stronger with Bell Telephone at 51 1/2 and Shawinigan at 22 1/2 each up 1/2. Galtelup up 1/2 to 31 1/2 and Brinsford up 1/2 to 32 1/2.

Hudson Bay Mining led the base metals up 1/2 to 53 1/2 while Asbestos rose 1/2 to 29 1/2. International Nickel 1/2 to 61 1/2 and Aluminum 1/2 to 21.

Papers continued their climb with Price up 1/2 to 43 1/2. Consolidated Paper one point to 40 1/2 and Moore Corporation 1/2 to 43 1/2. Hudson's Bay Company remained unchanged at 10 1/2.

Other gainers were Algoma Steel at 40 1/2 and Distillers Seagrams at 41 1/2, each up a point. Dominion Stores at 12 1/2 and Pacific Petroleum at 13 1/2, both up 1/2. Interprovincial Pipe Line added 1 1/2 to 74 1/2. Atlas Steel 1 1/2 to 32 1/2. Steel of Canada 1/2 to 16 1/2. Canadian Oil 1/2 to 31. Imperial Oil 1/2 to 40. Walker 1/2 to 50 1/2 and Canadian Cellos 1/2 to 30.

Losers included CPR at 32 1/2. Fraser at 23 1/2 and Great Lakes Paper at 16 1/2, each off 1/2.

Wall St. Celebrates

NEW YORK (AP) — Celebrating easier credit for stock purchases, the stock market staged one of its most vigorous rallies since the sharp plunge in May but failed to hold the lion's share of its gains. Trading was heavy.

Volume swelled to 7,120,000 shares from 2,550,000 Monday and was the largest since June 15 when 7,130,000 shares changed hands. The ticker tape lagged as much as 30 minutes behind transactions.

Gains of 2 or more points were numerous among blue chips at the start but the range was cut to a point or so by the close. The volatile "growth" stocks did better, as usual.

International Business Machines held a gain of 8 1/2 and Xerox 2 1/2.

Avco was the most active stock, up 1/2 at 22 on 25,000 shares. Second was Standard Oil (New Jersey), up 1 1/2 at 109 1/2 on 111,300 shares. Next came Studebaker, up 1/2 at 8 1/2.

A notable casualty was Lukens Steel which sank 3/4, following news of a lower dividend.

Montreal Bonds

MONTREAL (CP) — Bond prices were unchanged in quiet trading in all sections.

Activity was concentrated on the province of Quebec new issue, trading at a premium of 1/2 of a point.

Margins Aid Market

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonial Business Editor

The New York stock market received its expected boost from the lowering of the cash requirements for the purchase of stock from 70 to 50 per cent, and the upward trend spilled over into yesterday's Canadian markets as well.

Investors' Ills Eased

The volume of business at New York rose to more than 7,000,000 shares as new money was pumped into the purses of the investors.

In being allowed 50 per cent credit on share purchases the investor who was harried by marginal requirements during the May stock collapse will find his problems eased.

Low Levels

He will have an opportunity of getting back into the market at the comparatively low levels now obtaining.

The federal reserve bank says it lowered the cash requirement from 70 per cent to 50 per cent, not as a fillip to stock exchange prices, but because the level of credit made such a move reasonably safe.

More Undeclared

In extending credit on share purchases, the bank realizes that it is making the market more vulnerable if there should be another relapse.

It was because of the high cash requirements in existence last May that the distress selling during the last few days of that month was not much more serious than it would have been if the credit margin had been higher.

Lumber Exports to U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pressure for restrictions on Canadian timber imports is mounting as studies continue on problems of the slumping U.S. lumber industry. Washington Senator Warren G. Magnuson said Monday.

Recent Canadian announcement of plans to boost tariffs on most imports have raised concern in the domestic lumber industry, hard hit by Canadian competition, he said.

"They are telling us they are doing everything they can to protect their industry," Senator Magnuson said. He is chairman of the Senate commerce committee, which has held extensive hearings on lumber industry problems.

Cotton-Pickin' Fingers Out

He disclosed he had written a letter to Rev. Richard Haneson and district planning officer Martin Chesworth.

Chesworth recently suggested a revamping of the city's proposed Upper Levels Westview Drive commercial apartment complex to accommodate a joint city-district public arena.

The city, seeking district cooperation, is planning the arena for city-owned land.

Jetliner Crashes

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — A Continental Airlines Viscount jetliner crashed early Sunday afternoon after taking off and crashed-landed in a field. The 13 passengers and three crew members walked away from the flaming and exploding craft and suffered only minor injuries.

Boost for Mines

VANCOUVER — Two strong mining features were Mt. Washington at 1.40 and Poco Silver at 1.42. The former rose 25 cents on the day. Also higher were Craigmont and Western. Kootenay was again busy but lower at 37.

Most industrials had a firmer look with MacMillan at 18 1/2, Atlas-Steel at 33 and Neum at 18 1/2.

Pacific at 13 1/2 was a strong feature in oils also with Fort St. John at 1.80.

Big Award

To help him complete work for doctor of philosophy degree in chemical engineering, Leslie R. Galloway of Victoria has been awarded fellowship of at least $2,000 by UBC. He returned to UBC in 1959 after four years in industry to work on his doctorate.

Popular 'Pop'

Driver Dies At Wheel

Art "Pop" Manson, who for eight years was Santa Claus to hundreds of children between Victoria and Nanaimo, died Tuesday at the wheel of his empty bus on the Patricia Bay Highway.

He is believed to have died from a heart attack just before his Pacific Stage Lines bus crashed into a ditch.

RECENT CHECK

A company spokesman said Mr. Manson, 59, of 425 Wilson, had his annual medical check-up recently.

The accident occurred one mile north of the Patricia Bay Airport as Mr. Manson, a 39-year veteran with Vancouver Island Coach Lines, was "deadheading" for Victoria after taking a bus load of passengers to the Swartz Bay ferry.

NO INQUEST

For eight years, on the Christmas eve run between Victoria and Nanaimo, Mr. Manson put on a red suit and a white beard and passed out candy and cheer along his route.

Officials said there will be no inquest.

New Show On Tonight

Another Victoria summer show opens this evening when Summer Showcase, presented by Fantasy Theatre, begins at 8:30 p.m. in the Strouco.

Cliff Clarke and Tony Wilkins direct this bright, gay revue with Jo Pepper, Rino Elverhoy, Sharon Kirk and dancers and a chorus.

Garage Fate May Be Set This Morning

Whether to delay or go ahead with construction of two off-street parking garages in downtown Victoria will likely be decided at a special meeting in city hall at 10 a.m. today.

Owners of downtown property, who voted last August for construction of the garages, will meet the city's downtown parking commission for a progress report.

"We will lay all the facts before the property owners so they will know what we are up against and we will get their recommendations as to what they want us to do," said Ald. Michael Griffin, chairman of the parking commission.

Film Time Changed At Bandshell

New time for the start of the International film festival in the Cameron Bandshell at Beacon Hill Park will be 8:30 p.m. today.

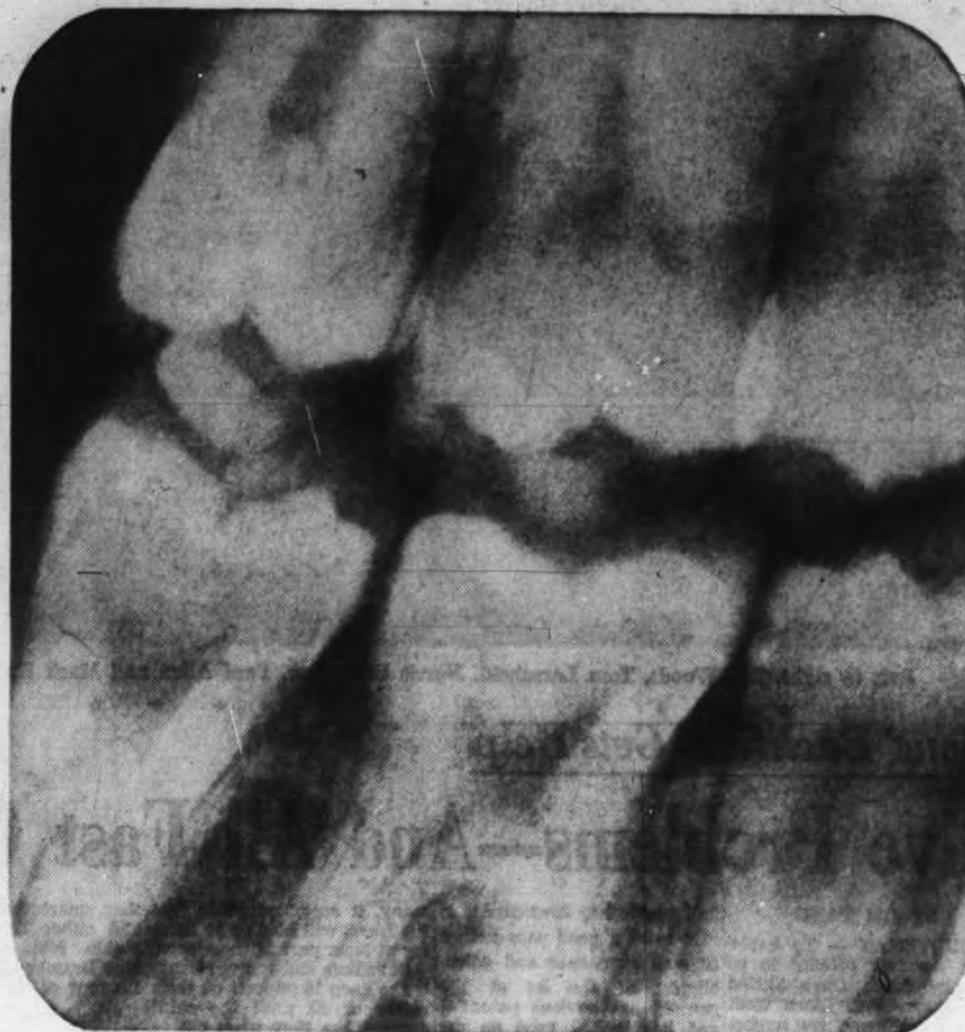

On tonight's program will be Fraser's River. The film follows the path of the famous explorer down the Fraser from Mount Robson to Vancouver. A second Canadian film, Railroaders, shows the wintertime struggle of keeping a CPR line open.

Two award-winning films, Beauty in Trust, made in England, and Interlude at Candlelight, originating in The Netherlands, also will be seen.

The swifts of India, related to hummingbirds, can fly at about 200 miles an hour.

This is an actual dental X-ray. See the dark patches pointed out by the arrows? They are areas of decay. Fillings show as distinct white patches (you can see two in the middle of the X-ray).

This X-Ray revealed only one cavity. Can you spot it? (Answer at bottom of page*). New Ipana Fluoride toothpaste helps prevent tooth decay. Read how.

Bristol-Myers announce Ipana Fluoride toothpaste—a unique new formula that helps prevent tooth decay

NEW IPANA FLUORIDE CONTAINS:

1. sodium fluoride
2. hexachlorophene
3. sodium lauryl sulphate

BRISTOL-MYERS, the pharmaceutical product manufacturers, have developed a unique new toothpaste formula. Its brand name is Ipana Fluoride, and it has just been released to local food and drug stores.

What is new about Ipana Fluoride? First of all, it is formulated with sodium fluoride.

But there is much more to the unique Ipana Fluoride formula. It also contains, to fight decay acids, hexachlorophene and sodium lauryl sulphate.

Children's teeth are especially vulnerable

Reduction of mouth acidity is a telling factor in the preservation of mature, adult teeth. But it is most important with children's teeth.

Young teeth are especially vulnerable while they are growing, hardening and strengthening their defences against decay.

They need tender care. Care in choosing what foods are eaten—and when. Care in making sure that dental visits are made regularly. And care in the choice and use of a toothpaste.

The three virtues of Ipana Fluoride toothpaste

Here's how Bristol-Myers can help. They have built these three main virtues into their unique new toothpaste formulation:

1. Ipana Fluoride helps prevent cavities.
2. Hexachlorophene and sodium lauryl sulphate are included to combat mouth bacteria and reduce mouth acidity. (This action has a second important task: It sweetens your breath).
3. Bristol-Myers' new formula also helps remove stains. With Ipana Fluoride, you can keep your teeth shining white.

There is a fourth virtue, less important, but most pleasing. Ipana Fluoride has a tangy refreshing flavour that your family will welcome.

A Major Cause of Tooth Decay

Every human mouth, no matter how clean, harbours many kinds of bacteria. Some of them are friendly, useful. But others act in hostile fashion.

The real villains are the acidogenic, or acid-forming, bacteria. These germs have a great love for all kinds of carbohydrates. Especially sugars. They devour sugars ravenously, then turn them into lactic acid.

This acid, held close to the teeth by sticky food particles, can etch away the hard enamel surface in a distressingly short time.

From Food to Acid in Five Minutes

The acidogenic bacteria are really fast workers. They can turn food into acid in less than five minutes (a very good reason for your family to brush as soon as possible after eating).

Bristol-Myers add hexachlorophene and sodium lauryl sulphate to Ipana Fluoride with the express object of reducing mouth acidity.

Hexachlorophene is known medically as a germicide. Its germicidal action kills many bacteria and, in effect, stuns others, so they can't reproduce.

Sodium lauryl sulphate performs a double task. It is:

1. an anti-enzyme and,
2. an oral detergent.

Its anti-enzymatic action interrupts bacilli, makes their life miserable for a while so that they produce less decay acid.

As an oral detergent, it penetrates deep between teeth to bring out food particles. The less food to work on, the less acid. That, in essence, is Bristol-Myers' unique new toothpaste formula—sodium fluoride, hexachlorophene and sodium lauryl sulphate.

Ipana Fluoride toothpaste now in your store

Watch for Ipana Fluoride. It's brand new, but chances are that the latest fluoride toothpaste has now reached your local store.

Try it—Bristol-Myers believe Ipana Fluoride helps prevent tooth decay.

Regular Ipana is for people who want an effective, good-tasting toothpaste, without fluoride

Fresh-formula regular Ipana does not contain a fluoride. Some people prefer it that way.

For one thing, regular Ipana tastes particularly good—it has a tingling, sprightly flavour that even new Ipana Fluoride can't quite match.

Regular Ipana also contains an abundant measure of hexachlorophene and sodium lauryl sulphate. It fights mouth bacteria in especially vigorous fashion, on gums as well as teeth. And in doing so, keeps your breath fresh long after each brushing.

The regular Ipana formula also contains dicalcium phosphate. This ingredient helps separate foreign deposits from the enamel—in gentlest fashion.

It actually helps prevent hard scale from building up and causing irritation and inflammation of the gums. (If you already have bleeding gums, see your dentist right away).

Dicalcium phosphate acts like jewelers' rouge. It cleans without harsh scouring. Regular Ipana cleans, polishes and combats mouth bacteria—on teeth and gums.

A dental report from Bristol-Myers Company of Canada Limited

*Very faint outlines of cavity can be seen on tooth at bottom right of X-Ray. Cavity shows as light grey patch on white enamel where tooth touches its neighbor.

Lions' Backfield Gets Help

Five Problems—And All Fast Ones

By JIM TANG

COURTENAY — To implement the new offence to be used by coach Dave Skrien this season, B.C. Lions went out to recruit some new import halfbacks. They did quite a job of recruiting, and while college reputations are not always an surety of success in professional football, the Lions have new talent at the position which must be the envy of many a club.

To supplement Willie Fleming, who has shown he can be the most spectacular back in the Canadian game unless opposing clubs are able to concentrate solely on stopping him, the Lions have five new halfbacks who have the potential to be more than supplementary support. In fact, one of the more popular guessing games is trying to pick which and how many of the five will survive the cut-down when the Lions are forced to slim their roster to its maximum number of 33 players.

ALL SPEEDY

Speed is one thing the quintet has in common. Colorado's Ted Woods was one of the best quarter-backers in the United States and has been timed in 9.5 seconds for the 100 yards. Mack Burton of San Jose State and Norris Stevenson of Missouri, who is a second-year pro, are credited with 9.6. Tom Larchfeld of Utah State with 9.8 and Paul Allen of Brigham Young University with 9.9 seconds.

These are impressive times but Fleming is as fast as any one football field, where straightaway speed is not nearly as important as agility, body control and an opening burst. The story is told that when Fleming reported to camp, his first wind sprint saw him running in front.

In any event, the Lions do have speed at the position and Skrien must be happy with the choice he has.

On what has happened in training camp, it won't be an easy choice.

Woods, a rangy 190 pounds, is a powerful as well as a speedy agile runner reminding one of Winnipeg's Leo Lewis. On what he has shown, he just has to get every chance to make the club—and should.

VERSATILE PLAYER

With versatility, as always, sure to count heavily when decisions have to be made, Burton has quite a lot going for him. He can play flanker as well as the tight halfback spot, would do as the split end and is better than most on defence.

His physical proportions are listed as identical to those of Woods—six feet, one inch and 190 pounds.

And then there is Larchfeld, who draws attention for more than his size. At a listed 170 pounds, which could be stretching things by five pounds, he is the smallest player in camp.

NONE WANTED

But not an ounce of his poundage is wasted. He is five feet, eight inches tall and is a sturdy young man. His businesslike attitude and spirit make him the kind of a player any club would like to keep, and the Lions rate him highly.

"If he was any heavier we may not have been able to sign him," said general manager Herb Capozzi when someone remarked on Larchfeld's size.

The inference, of course, was that American professional clubs would certainly have gone all out to get the Utah State star but for his lack of size.

NO WORRY

But his lack of size isn't worrying Skrien one little bit. "No one had better downgrade this fellow because of his size," the Lions' coach says. "He is quick, sturdy, learns easily, has a great attitude and a lot of moves which help him overcome his lack of size."

Stevenson, with the edge of a season of professional football and other credentials, is said to be a good pass-catcher as well as runner and Allen, biggest of the lot at 195 pounds, has obvious potential and has looked good on defence.

Skrien isn't worrying about having to decide who to keep. "We'll have a look at them in the exhibition games and see who gives the most for those extra yards," he says. "Action may make the decision for us."

Skrien says he will "definitely keep two" of the five new halfbacks and if exhibition games don't eliminate too many, it seems probable that the Lions will hold on to three for at least part of the season. Canadian clubs are permitted to keep 16 imports on their roster of 33 until the third game. Then they must cut to 15, of which only 13 can be used in one game.

SEVEN OR EIGHT?

Just how the Lions will divide their import strength remains to be seen. They may be forced to keep eight linemen, which will leave room for only seven import backs, and if they can get away with seven linemen, they can keep eight backs.

It can be taken for granted that quarterbacks Joe Kapp and either Bob Schloredt or rookie Mel Melin, fullback Nub Beamer and Fleming will fill four of the backfield jobs.

What happens from there depends on many things. If fullback Don Vico makes it as a linebacker, he will probably be counted among the import backs, and if Canadian Sonny Homer makes it as a flanker, Skrien will be able to keep another import lineman.

Injuries could also alter things but whether he gets to keep two or three of the newcomers he should have no worries about the halfback spots.

He also stated his case to league-commissioner Tommy Gordon, who said earlier last night that "there will definitely be action taken if this is true. I'm not going to put up with anything like this."

Whatever happens regarding the charges, Norburns will be in the city tonight to play a game which could mathematically clinch a playoff spot for Victoria Shamrocks, who have their eyes on second place and can get back within two points by handing Norburns what would be their 18th straight loss.

Dickinson scoffed at a rumor that his club was considering dropping out of the league. "Now where did that one crop up?" he asked. "It's completely ridiculous. We are building for the future and we will be only two years before we take a back seat to no one."

He said he was bringing over his best club—by air—and pointed out that Shamrocks barely beat his club, 9-7, only last Friday.

Last night before 2,000 fans, largest crowd of the season at Kerrisdale Arena, defending-champion New Westminster kept alive hopes of a repeat win by edging Vancouver, 9-7.

Result left the Royal City club six points out of the lead with nine games left for both, including three more against each other. Win gave New Westminster a 5-4 edge in games played to date.

A four-goal fourth quarter, in which the losers were held scoreless, won it. Turning point came when Wayne Pecknold got a five-minute penalty for accidentally gashing Jack Barclay's forehead and inflicting a wound which required eight stitches.

New Westminster got the tying and winning goal—by Mike Gates, while Pecknold was serving his time.

Both clubs received excellent pitching, and each used four pitchers. Most impressive of the eight was Don Drysdale, the towering Los Angeles right-hander who started for the National League.

Drysdale hit one batter, walked another and was tagged for a triple by Aparicio—as the first man reached base in each of the three innings he worked. But Drysdale bled down each time, ending the first inning by striking out Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle, the second with a force-out and double-play and the third with two pop-ups and a strike-out.

Jim Bunning, American League starter, had even better figures. He faced only 10 men in his three shutout innings, marred only by Clemente's first-inning double.

Losing pitcher was Camilo Pascual, who gave up four of the eight National League hits and two of their three runs to be tagged with the loss.

WINNING PITCHER

Juan Marchal, San Francisco ace, pitched two hitless innings to gain credit for the win. He was followed by Bob Purkey of Cincinnati and Bob Shaw of Milwaukee, who each won two innings.

Dick Donovan of Cleveland pitched two innings for the losers and Milt Pappas of Baltimore the last inning.

Clemente, getting three straight safeties, was the only player to get more than one hit. Clemente's double and Aparicio's triple were the only extra-base hits.

But Drysdale bled down each time, ending the first inning by striking out Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle, the second with a force-out and double-play and the third with two pop-ups and a strike-out.

Jim Bunning, American League starter, had even better figures. He faced only 10 men in his three shutout innings, marred only by Clemente's first-inning double.

Losing pitcher was Camilo Pascual, who gave up four of the eight National League hits and two of their three runs to be tagged with the loss.

WINNING PITCHER

Juan Marchal, San Francisco ace, pitched two hitless innings to gain credit for the win. He was followed by Bob Purkey of Cincinnati and Bob Shaw of Milwaukee, who each won two innings.

Dick Donovan of Cleveland pitched two innings for the losers and Milt Pappas of Baltimore the last inning.

Clemente, getting three straight safeties, was the only player to get more than one hit. Clemente's double and Aparicio's triple were the only extra-base hits.

At the time that it was announced that Norburns would be in the city tonight to play a game which could mathematically clinch a playoff spot for Victoria Shamrocks, who have their eyes on second place and can get back within two points by handing Norburns what would be their 18th straight loss.

Last night before 2,000 fans, largest crowd of the season at Kerrisdale Arena, defending-champion New Westminster kept alive hopes of a repeat win by edging Vancouver, 9-7.

Result left the Royal City club six points out of the lead with nine games left for both, including three more against each other. Win gave New Westminster a 5-4 edge in games played to date.

A four-goal fourth quarter, in which the losers were held scoreless, won it. Turning point came when Wayne Pecknold got a five-minute penalty for accidentally gashing Jack Barclay's forehead and inflicting a wound which required eight stitches.

New Westminster got the tying and winning goal—by Mike Gates, while Pecknold was serving his time.

Both clubs received excellent pitching, and each used four pitchers. Most impressive of the eight was Don Drysdale, the towering Los Angeles right-hander who started for the National League.

Drysdale hit one batter, walked another and was tagged for a triple by Aparicio—as the first man reached base in each of the three innings he worked. # 'Marvellous Marv' Keeps 'Em Booming

By JIM BEAKER
NEW YORK (AP)—As Marv Thurnberry goes, so go the New York Mets.

Generally, that is pretty awful. "Marvellous Marv" Thurnberry, as he is known in Polo Grounds circles, is a first baseman who has been described as a poor fielder but a week hitter. Ordinarily he's pretty good in the clutch, too.

Perhaps, because these attributes so perfectly match those of the new National team, which is making a drive for the worst 10th-place finish in baseball history, Thurnberry has become a sort of symbol of the inept Mets.

All the frustration of this week is centred on him. His every move, at bat or just standing around holding up the bat, is greeted with a boisterous chorus of boos. Marv gives them something to boo about too. Bad as he is, he is also a little unlucky. Marv has been known to triple with the bases loaded and forget to touch first base on the way around. He has been picked off first base. A runner has taken two bases on him when he missed a pick-off.

Ball-Hounds

WESTERLOPE, England (CP)—Officials of this Northumberland golf course believe dogs trained by thieves are responsible for the disappearance of 200 golf balls every week.

throw from the pitcher. A pop fly he called for once fell 15 feet in front of him. Just to the left of the pitcher's mound. He has made three errors in one game.

Ordinarily you can get away with a lot of that sort of thing in the peace and quiet of the major cellar. But the Mets are new and their fans are wildly rabid. Down 11-1 in the eighth, they chant for a rally. A base on balls, a topped roller and a hit batter can move them to a state of frenzy.

And then when nothing useful ensues, they turn on Thurnberry.

He is a handy target because if he hasn't done anything lousy lately, it is usually only a matter of waiting a little while.

However, it must be reported that some confusion has entered the ranks of the Thurnberry boaters.

Last weekend, the object of their derision twisted around and snapped at their ankles.

Track Meet Deadline Set

Closing date for entries in the Highland Games track meet has been set at July 21.

Juniors (16 and under) and seniors may obtain information on entries by phoning Art Burgess at the YMCA or Bill Marshall at EV 3-4227.

Meet will be held July 28 at Macdonald Park starting at 1 p.m.

In a contest against St. Louis Cardinals, Marvellous Marv advanced to the plate as a pinch-hitter in the last of the ninth with a man on base and the Mets a run behind. He struck a homer to win the game.

Castro with a crew cut would not have been any more startling. In the second game, Thurnberry hit another homer to tie the score and tripled in the bottom of the ninth, but the Mets lost 3-2.

The next day he was back to normal and so were the Mets, who were beaten, 15-1.

But there is no doubt that he had shaken the fans' faith in him. If he isn't careful he might become just another Met. There's not much future in that.

Hot Air Delays Pigeons

VANCOUVER (CP)—Oh, that California heat!

It's too much for Vancouver pigeons.

Thirty-three of the 78 birds entered in the B.C. Provincial Pigeon Club race from Wood, Calif., had not returned to their Vancouver area loft by Tuesday, four days after they were released.

Race secretary Dick Ausma blamed high temperatures in California for the pigeons' delay in returning home.

"But they'll all come home eventually. We have no doubts about that."

Minor Hockey Tabs Klassen As President

It's only July, but the Greater Victoria Minor Hockey Association has begun planning for next year, starting with a new executive.

Hank Klassen takes over as president, replacing Doug Fletcher, who retired after many years with the organization. Jack Woodley will be vice-president, with Ken Courtney as secretary and Stan Ward as treasurer. Dennis Hubbrook will serve as registrar.

The organization lost another long-time member in Hugh Drybrush, last year's secretary-treasurer, who also resigned.

Bridge Results

Winners of the weekly tournament of the Victoria unit of the American Contract Bridge League were Elizabeth Ward and Les Stewart, Owen Brown and George Moran, Betty Collins and Geri Deane, Freda Small and Betty Collins, Jo Waddington and Midge Macdonald.

Scotsman Leads Golf Qualifiers

TROON, Scotland (CP)—Eric green Monday. David Thomas Brown, a peppery Scot, shot an easy 70 in a tricky wind Tuesday and led 199 qualifiers into the British Open golf championships which begin over tough Troon course today.

Brown, a Ryder Cup player, was one of the early finishers in the second day of qualifying rounds and his 36-hole total of 139—he had a 69 Monday—stood up as other golfers battled sea winds from the Firth of Clyde.

Qualifying rounds were played at Troon and nearby Lochgreen (both par 72) and conditions were particularly trying at the 7,015-yard Troon layout where the tournament will be held beside the sea.

The better scores—including Brown's—were posted at the 5,785-yard Lochgreen where Arnold Palmer of the United States, defending champion, came through with a five-under-par 67 after a shaky 76 Monday for a total of 143.

BRUCE Devlin, Australia, and Joe Carr, the Irish amateur and British Walker Cupper, were tied at 140 on scores of 72-68 and 71-69 respectively. Both played at Lochgreen.

Australia's Kel Nagle, winner in 1960, struggled over Troon, finishing with a 76 for 141 after a record-smashing 65 at Lochgreen.

Jim Patterson, who owns 30 acres and half a mile of Cowichan River frontage, on the south bank immediately below the Silver Bridge on the Island Highway, has a happy arrangement that appeals to both river fishermen and summertime fun seekers.

Patterson's property takes in the well-known Cowichan River bar, the best known steelhead fishing spot on the internationally famous river.

Steelhead were disturbed a couple of years ago when Patterson bought the property, which most for years had been reserve property.

Patterson wanted to develop a resort area along the river... and he has done so.

But, he met the fishermen more than half way. From Sept. 15 to June 15 he allows river fishermen free use of the riverbank... and this covers the best steelhead and trout fishing times.

Between June 15 and Sept. 15, he operates his river frontage as a resort with fun for everyone... and his resort, now in its second year, is becoming one of the finest tenting areas on the island, with room eventually for 250 tenting families.

Running through his property is the slender, clear lake, left when the Cowichan River was diverted to make way for the new highway bridge. It is around this lake he has built his Silver Park.

There is free swimming for anyone who wants to use the first and best pool, which can be seen from the Island Highway. The water is deep and crystal clear. A concession building fronts the pool.

Then comes a tiny tots swimming pool, made out of concrete and situated in the picnic grounds above the lake. It averages six inches deep, is skirted by picnic tables, and the rule is "big kids keep out."

This pool is fenced, but it adjoins a big kids' pool which is 2½ feet deep and is also skirted by picnic tables. Both pools are sprayed with a continuous flow of water. Then comes a play area for youngsters with swings and an eight-seater rocking horse.

A rustic covered picnic shelter features eight picnic units, each complete with an old wood stove.

Clean washrooms with running water are provided and future additions include showers and hot water.

The first of two community camping areas sits under tall firs and cottonwoods and fronts the lake below the main swimming pool, and itself features a shallower three to four-foot deep swimming pond, although most campers prefer to swim in the deep pool closer to the highway. But campers do bring their kayaks and small punts to use in the lake.

This area has room for about 60 camping parties. For those who like seclusion, but Patterson says most seem to prefer to stay among friends, there is room for about 50 units scattered at various places at the lower end of the park. Picnic tables have been placed among the trees.

All the campers and picnickers have access to the Cowichan River, which is only about 100 yards from the camping area, and the bar which in winter is a favorite steelheading spot is now dried up, providing a riverside playground.

This is a water playground," says Patterson. His future plans call for nine-hole putting green and shelter houses built among the trees, which will require a short ladder to reach. He hopes to be able to stock his lake with trout.

He charges 15 cents a person (minimum 50 cents) for picnickers and 30 cents a person for campers (minimum $15), which means a family can have a lot of fun for little money.

Immediately across from Patterson's gravel bar on the Cowichan River is the newly-developed Rotary Park, which provides a fine river beach playground and half a dozen picnic tables.

Hot off the press is a new Campbell River map by Doris Best... of the type which has provided outdoorsmen with many happy hours camping, fishing and exploring in that area. This new map includes an inset map of Butte Lake, which will be a great help as Butte Lake has hitherto been only on the Courtenay area map. Some of the better known camping sites and boat launching spots are shown and included is a new way to Spirit Lake.

The Vancouver Island Affiliated Fish and Game Association sport fishing map and guide is now available at most sporting goods and magazine outlets... and should be a must close to every fisherman's tackle box.

Garden Notes

Let Them Breathe!

By M. V. CRESNUT, FRBS

When I planted my bedding-out annuals this spring, I did so with considerable misgivings, as we have been having a lot of trouble in our neighborhood this past few years with aster yellows, a particularly unpleasant virus disease spread by sap-sucking insects. So far this year—and I am typing this with my fingers crossed, which is a neat trick—I haven't had a smell of this beastly infection anywhere in my garden.

Our double white petunias are putting on a grand show, marigolds are blooming their heads off and the snap and stocks and hybrid zinnias are all a picture of health. The only problem with the annuals now is to keep them blooming right through to the end of the season.

The condition of the soil surface is very important here, for after watering a well-worked and pulverized soil, it tends to run together and form a crust on the surface, cutting off the air supply to the roots. And without sufficient air in the soil, the plants tend to lose their lower leaves first, then cease to grow and bloom.

To prevent this, the trick is to get in there with the Dutch hoe or hand fork after every rain or watering, just as the soil is beginning to dry out on top, stirring and loosening it and breaking up the crust between the plants so the roots can get at their all-important supply of air.

Admittedly, this is a lot of work—necessary too—for all this hoeing and cultivating can be avoided and the soil surface kept loose and open by spreading a good layer of peat moss over it.

Pest moss isn't the only mulching material you can use, of course, for any organic material will keep the surface from drying out. But the dark brown color of peat moss looks most attractive on the flower beds and the moss will improve the soil texture wonderfully when you dig it in during the fall tidy-up.

Lawn mowings work almost as well but give an untidy and shiftless appearance to the flower beds out front. Save your lawn mowings, by all means, but use them in the backyard for mulching the vegetable rows. Peat moss is a better bet where appearances are important.

Another very important point in keeping the annuals blooming is to frustrate every attempt they make to set seed. A few kinds, such as salvia and the small bedding petunia, can form seed pods and still go on flowering, but most of our bedding annuals simply pack up and call it a day if allowed to set and mature their seed.

It is best to make the rounds once a week, picking off all the faded flowers before the seed pods can form. Even the indefatigable petunias and salvia will put on a better and longer-lasting display if given this attention.

With petunias, this is a miserable chore, for the small-flowered bedding varieties produce such a terrific number of blooms to pick over and the flower parts secrete a sticky gum which makes a horrid mess of your hands. A little lemon juice will take it off, though, and your plants will shoot ahead with renewed vigor after being relieved of the burden of setting seed.

Incidentally, lemon juice will take those persistent stains off your hands after pruning tomatoes, too.

Satellite TV Plans Made
First Commercial in Space

NEW YORK (UPI)—History's first transcontinental telecast in days or weeks away, but planners are already speculating about the first commercial in space.

Europe and America will beam live programs to each other if and when the telstar satellite, lines up between the two continents at decent viewing hours.

This might be July 17, 18 or 23 if booster rocket and relay satellite function satisfactorily. Or it could be later. These are the program plans:

From America to Europe: live pickups from across the country showing whatever is happening at the chosen hour—"like the front page of a newspaper," as one network spokesman described it.

From Europe to America: (to take place one orbit or about 2½ hours after the U.S. telecast): live pickups of scenes in at least 15 nations, a travelogue that might be titled "Europe by Eye."

At best, each program could last little more than 15 minutes because of Telstar's speed across the horizon. Continuous viewing would require a series of satellites taking turns in relay position.

Network planners cannot set exact times or program details until the full orbit had been calculated. But already, some are speculating on the commercial future of transatlantic television.

Some feel airlines and travel organizations might be the first to support space television.

The initial offering will be a sustaining performance supported by three U.S. networks and the national networks of Europe.

The European networks will feed their segments to the Eurovision control center in Brussels. The signal will be sent from Brussels to the British space radio station at Goonhilly Down, then beamed to Telstar and retransmitted from the satellite to the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. space radio station at Andover, Maine.

The latter will feed the European program to American Broadcasting Co., Columbia Broadcasting System and National Broadcasting Corp. networks.

The time schedule hinges on two variable factors:

• The satellite's moving into a position to bounce signals between Europe and America on two successive orbits.

• The occurrence of these orbits at a time of "mutual visibility"—that is, at a convenient hour for viewers on both sides.

"It may be two weeks or more before the best time will occur," a spokesman for the networks' planning committee said yesterday.

Promises Not Kept
Gold Rush Fete Didn't Pan Out

By PETER WORTHINGTON from Dawson City

The Gold Rush Festival is broke and could fold at the end of this month, instead of Aug. 17 as scheduled.

There is growing hostility here towards festival "outsiders" by many town workers who claim they have not been paid.

Ottawa's $50,000 ante, as well as nearly $400,000 put up to restore the Palace Grand Theatre and sternwheeler Keno, has long since been spent.

The Broadway-bound musical, Fox, the festival's only real nugget, may soon close because of poor attendance.

If attendance doesn't pick up within two weeks—away goes Fox and star Bert Lahr.

Many of the bellyhooed things-to-do and see just haven't materialized.

The festival hasn't kept its promises, either to tourists or the people of Dawson.

Advertising exaggerations and false promises include tours of the gold creeks and the town. These are non-existent.

The notorious Red Feather and Monte Carlo saloons have not been refurbished.

Advertisements offering whale hunts with Eskimos turned out to be nonsense.

Accommodation was sold on the sternwheeler Keno and after the first festival week it still wasn't ready.

A publicized fashion show with Eskimo girls modeling sports clothes is also a myth.

A film festival of documentaries about the north is up in the air. Still showing in its place is a double-feature movie starring Jeff Chandler and Rock Hudson.

A much-publicized display of latest Parisian fashions and Norman Hartnell dresses in Madam Tremblay's famous store, turns out to be three tired and obsolete dresses hanging on a rack.

Prices charged for tours are exorbitant.

A two-hour trip down the Yukon costs $6, gold panning from $6 to $10, a helicopter ride $15, the play from $3 to $7.50.

Accommodation at "Tent City" is up to $15 a room.

Hotel rooms which cost $1.50 now are offered at $6 to $8 a day. And people who read the publicity and arrived expecting big city comforts get the shock of their sanitary lives.

All that is "big city" is the Broadway musical and the prices.

headlines. "If you are a good actress you don't need that sort of thing to be a success," Anne insisted. Her co-star, Michael Craig, concurred.

Robert Preston has signed to co-star with Judy Holiday in "I Married a Psychiatrist"—a movie, to start in New York in December.

Warren Beatty's demand for $300,000 and 7 per cent of the profits for a movie is in contrast to the $200,000 that Tony Perkins is quite happy to accept for his current movie in Paris. And think how much longer Tony has been a star.

Marlene Dietrich is having a mad fling with her pianist.

Richard Burton does not object to being photographed in those love-dovey poses with Elizabeth Taylor. But he does object to the camera angles that make him look heavier. That's not cricket.

Joe Mankiewicz would like his "Cleopatra" movie to be released in two parts. This not only would make each segment a mere $15,000,000, instead of $30,000,000, but he says it really is two complete stories—the love of Cleo for Caesar and her passion for Antony.

Cornel Wilde has come up with a good idea for producers with stars who do not report for work. He has a mask of the star's face, puts it on the stand-in, and goes merrily along.

Lee Remick sent an executive to check on the cows of Dublin and Malaga, Spain, because she wants to be sure the milk in those areas is OK when she stars in "The Ballad of the Running Man." She is bringing along her children, one a babe in arms.

Darryl Zanuck is hoping that General de Gaulle will attend the world premiere of his D-Day movie, "The Longest Day," in Paris late in September. If the president of France does, it will be de Gaulle's first visit to a commercial movie. The picture runs three hours and four minutes, and thank heaven there will be no intermission.

Peter Sellers says he still expects to star in "Ulysses"—but not until next year.

Buses May Drop Shoppers in City

Establishment of a zone in the vicinity of city hall where sightseeing buses can offend passengers wishing to shop in downtown stores will be considered by city council Thursday.

The proposal, made by retail merchants in the city, was endorsed last night by spokesmen for the major sightseeing bus lines operating in the area.

AGREEMENT

Agreement was reached at a joint meeting of sightseeing operators and the city's streets and traffic committee.

Ald. Michael Griffin, committee chairman, said he was advised that despite complaints by some merchants on Government Street, business was good for the majority.

Those merchants who feel they have been hurt by sightseeing operations, which they claim pick up ferry passengers at the dock and return them there just before the boat leaves, "don't want to be named," said Ald. Griffin.

INTO CITY'S HEART

"I think the merchants may have a legitimate beef," said Ald. Millard Mooney. "After all the city of Victoria pays $51,000 a year to the publicity bureau to get visitors and a large portion comes from the merchants. We should at least try to get visitors into the heart of the city."

The city parking lot behind the police station was suggested by Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow as the most suitable "central spot" at which sightseeing buses could unload their passengers who wished to walk to the ship and visit downtown stores en route.

NOT OBLIGATORY

Sightseeing operators agreed and said they would like to try the scheme, but added that it could not be made obligatory for those passengers who preferred to travel direct to the dock.

The move, along with minor changes in the allocation of space in the causeway area to sightseeing bus companies, will be recommended to council by the traffic committee. The changes include establishment of bus zone on Menzies for a block south of Belleville. Inspector Brooke Douglas said Police Chief John Blackstock favored banning of all sightseeing buses and horse-drawn carriages from curb parking spots.

Editor Confident

Market Place Sure for U.K.

Britain will join the European Common Market because by so doing it will make itself the leader of a third world power block, a united Europe.

This was the opinion of Richard J. Bower, editor-in-chief of the Colonist, expressed in a speech Tuesday to the Kiwanis Club of Victoria North.

Mr. Bower was one of four Canadian editors recently invited to visit Europe to study the effects of the E.C.M.

LEADERSHIP

He said Britain will, by combining the roles of nursemaid and protector to the continent, take over leadership of Western Europe.

Two reasons were advanced by Mr. Bower for England becoming the leader of Europe: • Mutual distrust among the Common Market "partners" abounds. • Britain has an independent nuclear striking force, which it is felt would be more effective in repelling possible Communist aggression than that of the United States.

HARD FACTS

The hard facts of Common Market existence are that Germany and France don't trust each other and the junior partners, Italy and the Benelux countries, are suspicious of the larger two.

If Britain joined, France and Germany would side with Britain against each other "just to do the other fellow in the eye," said Mr. Bower.

The smaller countries in the E.C.M. would like to see Britain enter as a stabilizing factor. They feel West Germany would sacrifice everything to be reunited with East Germany, even to striking some sort of a bargain with the Communists.

RISK MINIMIZED

The danger of this would be minimized by Britain's entry, he said.

The British nuclear bomber force is more and more being regarded as Western Europe's main line of defence against the East, said Mr. Bower.

It is felt in many countries that despite pledges to defend Europe the United States may stand on the sidelines as it did during the two world wars, said Mr. Bower.

ENTRY FOR BRITAIN

Entry into the E.C.M. would be extremely costly for Britain economically, said Mr. Bower. Britain would also be faced with the problem of keeping wages from dropping with the free movement of labor from other countries which would result from joining.

"It will have to gamble its sovereignty. If it wins it becomes the leader of Europe. If it loses it becomes one of the crowd," said Mr. Bower.

He predicted, however, that the decisive step would be taken soon.

"It is unlikely entry to the market will become an election issue."

Jury Clears Cigarette Firm

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A jury Tuesday found the Philip Morris Co. not responsible for a cancer contracted by a cigarette smoker.

John T. Ross, 62, had sued Philip Morris for $250,000. He lost his voice box and other organs of his throat in an operation for removal of a cancer in 1952.

Timber Rights Decision To City Firm

Hotly disputed contract for timber rights on B.C.'s Tahmopan Reservation No. 2 on the north coast has finally been settled in favor of a Victoria firm, Ottawa has announced.

Only bidder was Beaufort Industries Ltd., of this city, with an offer of $1,700,000. Earlier action on the contract which Beaufort failed to win raised charges of political discrimination. Members of the Tahmopan Indian band have approved the new contract.

Report Claims

Youth Home Primitive, Fire Trap

Overcrowding, fire danger, primitive facilities and lack of means with which to separate hardened delinquents from first offenders were conditions outlined at city hall yesterday in the annual report on Greater Victoria's juvenile detention home.

Detention home supervisor Charles Ball cites the conditions to back a strong plea for an early start on construction of a new juvenile detention home.

LARGER HOME

Present plans call for construction of a larger detention home behind Spencerhouse at the end of this year but financing arrangements include federal grants for winter works.

There is no assurance the federal government will implement a winter works program this year.

CRIME-BREEDING

Mr. Ball's report echoes complaints about the detention home in 1957 when Col. W. S. Dingley — then superintendent — said bluntly the home was a breeding ground for crime.

Col. Dingley eventually resigned his position because of conditions at the home.

Points made in Mr. Ball's report for 1961 include:

- The home has been condemned by Fire Chief James Bayliss.
- Unexpected increase in the number of delinquent girls sometimes forced authorities to hold delinquent boys in the city jail.
- It is a constant battle to maintain discipline and control without proper facilities.
- Inmates continue to damage the home.
- There is no enclosed area outside for exercise or recreation use.
- The basement area, where the boys are confined, has no ventilation. Windows are barred and secured.
- Girls are restricted to the kitchen or locked in their bedroom depending on behavior.
- Security risks, trouble-makers in the home, juvenile drunks and at times the overflow, have to be held in the city jail.

Statistics for 1961 show the number of juvenile boys admitted to the home was 95, compared with 121 in 1960. The number of girls admitted was 35, compared with 20 for the previous year.

Most of the boys admitted

Start Soon On Saanich Classrooms

Construction of 10 badly needed elementary and two secondary classrooms in various parts of Saanich is expected to start in September, a Saanich school board spokesman said Tuesday.

Trustees were given the go-ahead on the $285,000 bylaw by the ratepayers in May.

MOVING IN 1963

The spokesman said it is expected students will be moving into the new classrooms in the early part of 1963.

Plans call for addition of four single rooms to existing elementary schools, and the addition of two classrooms to Mount Newton Junior Secondary School.

TWO SCHOOLS

Also planned are two three-room elementary schools to be located at Royal Oak Avenue and Lechside and at Durran Road and West Saanich Road.

It had been expected at one point that the half-prepared Saanich school district would need 18 additional classrooms by September, 1963, but this figure was revised after study, said A. G. Blair, secretary.

MEET THE NEED

At the time the bylaw was being planned the board met with ratepayers to enable them "to get in on the ground floor" of planning to meet the need for new classrooms.

This was to avoid repetition of the defeats of three successive bylaws in recent years. A fourth bylaw, reduced by more than $100,000 to a final figure of $275,000, was approved in May, 1961, after ratepayers banded together to support it.

were 14 and 15 years old. Most of the girls were 15 and 16.

Sketch plans for a new juvenile detention home, estimated at $125,000, including furnishings, have been approved by the detention home board of management and the inter-municipal committee, and detailed plans and specifications are being prepared.

Plans schedule the calling of tenders next month and a start on construction in October. Construction is expected to take several months.

The four Greater Victoria municipalities have agreed to share costs of construction, furnishing and operation, and application will likely be made to the provincial government for a grant to assist.

Road in the Hole Inverted Hump Makes Engineers Jump

Esquimalt engineers are about ready to burn their office copy of the old motto, "If a job's worth doing it's worth doing well."

In its place may go another one, "Leave well enough alone."

It all started when the municipality embarked on a simple local improvement paving project in the 1200 block Lockley Road.

There was a four-foot-high hump in the road and no engineer likes the idea of paving a hump.

So in the interests of sound workmanship and happy ratepayers out came the hump.

But under the hump was a large mass of blue clay. Blue clay is anathema to roadbuilders because it is unstable, so out it came—or more accurately out it started to come.

By yesterday the 1200 block Lockley boasted a hole 10 feet deep and crowds of petulant youngsters were crowded around wondering how long it would be before Mao Tse-tung poked his head up through the bottom.

What with the cost of the hump and the cost of the blue clay the tab on the little neighborhood project has soared $5,000.

But it will end happily. The municipality will pick up the bill for the extra cost relieving local residents of an unpleasant surprise, and the blue clay (3,000 tons of it) is being used to create a school playing field.

Level of Lockley Road in Esquimalt started out where workman John Thompson is standing on top of a manhole cover, and then one thing led to another as simple paving project bogged down in blue clay.—(Robin Clarke photo.)

Study Indicated On Recreation

By TED SHACKLEFORD

Virtually ignored by civic leaders for the past three months, a detailed plan to co-ordinate and improve Greater Victoria's recreation programs might still break through the barrier of inaction.

After being passed over without discussion or action at three meetings of the Greater Victoria Inter-municipal committee, it now seems likely something will be done with the report at the committee's next meeting, expected to be held July 24.

NO GUARANTEE But here is still no guarantee of concrete action.

Prepared by a special committee of the Community Welfare Council of Greater Victoria after 18 months of work, the thick report was endorsed by the welfare council April 11.

MAYOR INTERESTED

It was sent to Greater Victoria Inter-municipal committee and members decided at their meeting April 17 to delay dealing with the report to allow members of the respective councils an opportunity to study it. Nothing definite has happened since.

But the Colonist discovered yesterday that Mayor R. B. Wilson wants the report discussed at the next meeting.

JOINT COMMISSION

One of the chief recommendations was that Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt should establish a joint recreation commission to co-ordinate and expand park and recreation facilities.

Other recommendations included:

Construction of a downtown recreational centre for senior citizens.

Purchase of more land in Greater Victoria for park and recreation use.

Development of a plan to improve present facilities, with emphasis on construction of swimming pools.

SCHOOL PROPERTY

Co-operation between the four municipalities and school boards to use school buildings and grounds outside regular school hours.

Delay of the inter-municipal committee in considering the report makes it unlikely the recommendations can be implemented this summer—even if all four municipalities are in favor.

Plaque Honors Billy Barker

The man who started the Barkerville gold rush 100 years ago will be remembered at a ceremony in Ross Bay Cemetery at 8 p.m. today.

A special plaque will be unveiled at the graveside of Billy Barker, who died here July 11, 1894. The Barkerville restoration committee is in charge.

Budgie Still Unbudded

How do you budge a budgie?

That's what employees of Victoria's Hudson's Bay store were wondering Tuesday more than 24 hours after some youngsters let one of the $5.95 birds out of its temporarily unwatched cage in the basement pet department.

Both youngsters and bird flew the coop. But, although the kids haven't been heard from, the budgie has been kicking up a terrible row.

The grey-blue bird fluttered around the basement ceiling Monday after its release at about 3 p.m., getting a bird's-eye view of customers in the cafeteria next to the pet shop.

By store-opening time yesterday the budgie had made his way to the main floor where it spent the day fluttering and swooping about the ceiling and serenading customers below.

Nobody could think of a way to go about catching the bird.

But if the bird puzzled people, at least it did its bit to draw attention to Victoria's centennial.

Its favorite perches were the bars, projecting from pillars a few inches below the ceiling, from which hang banners with portraits of prominent historical people.

The bird, an employee remarked, seemed to prefer portraits of women to men, and to show a special taste for portraits of Queen Victoria who was not amused.

No Delay Likely

Work on Airport Fully Committed

By IAN STREET

The federal government is already committed "morally, legally and in every other way" to begin construction without further delay of the proposed terminal building for Patricia Bay airport, Tory M.P. George Chatterton said last night.

Member of Parliament for Esquimalt-Saanich said on his return from Ottawa that discussions with Prime Minister Diefenbaker and others on the subject of austerity cuts had convinced him the long-delayed airport project would not be shelved.

MORE BENEFITS

Meanwhile, said Mr. Chatterton, the trip had immediate benefits for local farmers.

Formal approval was given to a $16,000 federal grant towards cost of building cold storage facilities for use by Saanich fruit farmers.

The government also undertook, but has not yet finally approved, payment of half of the $10,000 bill incurred by North and South Saanich Agricultural Association after wiring in its show buildings was condemned and had to be replaced.

BOTH VITAL

While the amounts involved in both cases are small, Mr. Chatterton said, each project was of vital importance to the local farming community.

He said the new cold storage facilities will enable Saanich fruit growers to compete with U.S. growers by providing chilled and frozen fruits. Local fruit growers had proved themselves a "progressive group" and the government heeded the M.P.'s plea that "regardless of austerity this (project) is absolutely necessary."

UNFORESEEN

Mr. Chatterton said he was "very hopeful" the government will pay $5,000 towards the cost of rewiring buildings on the Saanich fair grounds. He based his argument on the fact that the expense was entirely unforeseen and could not be planned for by the association.

On the subject of general cuts in the public works program for this area, foreshadowed by the recent announcement of an austerity program to be launched by Ottawa, Mr. Chatterton said: "My personal feeling is that in the case of certain projects, it doesn't matter too much if they should be started this year or next.

"The proposed fisherman's wharf at Sliwal Harbor, for instance, is a $250,000 project which I initiated some time ago. The fishermen need it—that's why I promoted the project and the government recognized this. But a delay of a few months will make very little difference here."

LONG-TERM

Into the same category fall such research projects as the proposed federal forestry laboratory for Saanich and the oceanographic institute that has been mooted for Victoria, he said.

"These are long-term projects that can be delayed easily six months or a year—but not indefinitely," said Mr. Chatterton.

Not so with the airport, however, where the contract for a new parking apron has already been let and sewer and water lines laid.

AWAIT HANGAR

In addition, said Mr. Chatterton, the government had committed itself to Fairley Aviation Ltd., which is waiting to take over a hangar purchased from the department of transport for its plant expansion. The move cannot be made until new facilities are found for the flying club which now occupies the premises.

Mr. Chatterton was also able to supply figures showing that on June 30 a total of 800 passengers passed through the airport at Patricia Bay. Transport Minister Leon Balcer, when he saw the figures, was "amazed," the M.P. said.

Missing Safe Found

Oriana Today

The 42,000-ton P & O Orient liner Oriana is scheduled to stop briefly off Ogden Point at 4.30 p.m. to pick up pilot, customs and immigration officials before proceeding to Vancouver.

A large safe, missing from Donnan's Lumber Company, 280 Bay Street, since Sunday, was found by two young girls near 2807 Millstream yesterday. Police said $100 in cash was missing but papers and cheques were intact. The safe door was pried open.

Strap Tight for Comfort Cinch Belt for Safety

Peter Bruton's NOTEBOOK

SAFETY FIRST: Seems quite a few drivers are prejudiced about the use of seat belts in their cars.

City insurance man Bert Buller points out the average driver is apathetic to seat belts and holds tightly to any excuse to avoid installing and using them.

He sends along this fact and fiction dopestheet.

The Claim: "I wouldn't be comfortable strapped in my car."

The Fact: Most drivers come to appreciate the support seat belts give them and actually miss it when riding in cars not equipped with them.

The Claim: "If I'm in an accident, I want to be thrown clear of the car."

The Fact: The likelihood of death or serious injury is five times greater if you are thrown out of your car in an accident.

The Claim: "I sure don't want to be trapped in my car in case of fire or if it ends up in the water."

The Fact: Since seat belts reduce the possibility and extent of injuries, you're likely to be in much better condition to effect your escape from a car in such circumstances if you're wearing a belt.

Also only one-half of one per cent of all traffic accidents involve fire or submersion.

The Claim: "Seat belts are unnecessary on short trips in urban areas at lower speeds."

The Fact: Of all fatal accidents, 45 per cent occur at speeds under 40 miles an hour; 65 per cent under 50 miles an hour. And over 50 per cent of all accidents occur in urban areas.

Legal Advice Urged

"The disposition of property by any mode of chance is suspect and where goods or merchandise are disposed of by any game of chance, or mixed chance and skill, organizations should obtain legal advice of possible violations of Section 171 (f) of the Canadian Criminal Code," he said.

Mr. Bonner also said that incorporated social clubs under the Societies Act of B.C. may operate bingo games on a customary basis but individual members of the clubs may be charged only 10 cents an hour or 50 cents a day to play.

"All operating expenses must be paid from these fees," said Mr. Bonner.

He added that where a jackpot is provided by the players, in addition to the other charges, "it is arguable" that a violation of the Criminal Code may be the result.

The survey into bingo operations was promised by Mr. Bonner during the last session of the legislature.

Detailed outline of the department's views have been sent out to all law enforcement agencies.

Strange Drumbeat

Indian drum beats and chants of a type never before heard in the Pacific Northwest will throw across the waters of Plummer Bay next week.

In a "hands across the border" goodwill gesture, a seven-man Indian dance group from Texas will perform dances of the plains and southwestern Indians.

The visiting Oglewanagi "ghost dancers" will participate in a 3 1/2-hour get-together at the Songhees Reserve off Maplebank Road at Admirals.

remembered until a cabinet order was passed it wasn't legal. Order was approved yesterday.

FISH SCALES: A halibut fishboat struck pay dirt up the coast the other week.

An excited fisherman spread the news over the radio network. "I've got 10,000 pounds on board and I'm going to stay here till I get 15,000 pounds," he yelled.

He kept on pulling more and more fish aboard.

The fisherman was duly rescued by a passing boat. His own vessel sank under his load.

IDLE THOUGHT:

The way Americans were streaming out of the city yesterday was enough to convince skeptics the tourists were taking Bill Hawkins literally—that Victoria is the gateway to Vancouver Island.

U.S. Fashions

Couturiers Go Plebeian

By JEAN NEPAIN WILSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Goodness knows how the brawny cowboy, truck driver, lumberjack or gob will react when he discovers his wardrobe is very chic in fact, haute couture.

But it is. So is the peasant's scarf, the governess' uniform, the coachman's jacket, grandpa's night shirt, and even the patches off the poor man's breeches.

Fashion writers here for the New York couture group's semi-annual press week will see for themselves as they preview fall and winter styles. American couturiers are enjoying a wave of plebeianism. There is much to be said for the working man's garb, they have decided. And there's much to be borrowed, recreated in expensive fabric like mink, and then repurposed out of the common man's reach.

STARTS THEM THINKING

Yves Saint Laurent, former designer for Christian Dior, started the garment district designers here to thinking in terms of fashion democracy.

Seeing no reason why the poor little rich girl should be deprived of a sailor's pea coat simply because she could afford something better, he made pea jackets at prices that even the admiral's wife couldn't meet.

He also saw no reason why cowboy scarves, galled hats, and even lowly dungarees couldn't be made to cost a lot more than they are and enjoy the prestige of being a status symbol.

New York designers have peppered the market with pea jackets and dude clothes. In various interpretations they'll be prominent in the all day style shows throughout this week.

Donald Brooks of Townley did his part by adding the "governess" dress to his fall collection.

PURSES T-SHIRTS

Bill Blass, for Maurice Rentner, makes much of the coachman's coat. He also goes for the truck driver's T-shirt more Marlon Brando ever did.

Zippered lumber jackets are thoughtfully disguised by several couturiers who cut them out of silky fabrics such as rich satin, metallic brocade and cut velvet. These are combined with floor-length dinner skirts.

There'll be talk around the market about the Nehru coat, which is in every designer's collection either as a spare shaped tunic dress or a coat. There'll also be much note-taking about muffled throats—that is, collars that practically reach the eyes.

There'll also be the apron skirt, the trench coat, the peasant's scarf, the turtle neck sweater, the shift of grandpa's night shirt with contrasting patches sewn on indiscriminately—all familiar features of the poor man's fashion pattern for years.

This rust wool suit was created by Jo Copeland of Pattullo as a part of her fall and winter collection. The four-button cutaway jacket peels off to reveal a sheath for after-hours sociability. Outfits were shown to the nation's fashion press as a part of the New York Couture Group's semi-annual style preview. — (AP Wirephoto.)

The crisp, man-tailored look of the 30s will be popular this fall as Arthur Jablow fashion house demonstrated with this coat costume. The short red wool coat tops an extra long blue corduroy blouse dotted with double rows of brass buttons, and a slim red wool skirt. The jaunty stovepipe hat is by Emme. — (AP Wirephoto.)

The three-quarter coat, which is sometimes a tunic in fashions for this fall, gets the straight line treatment by Marquise. The coat and skirt here are made of heavy ginger tweed. The slim skirt is topped by a brown plaid blouse matching the coat lining fabric. The pillbox hat is also of the wool tweed fabric. — (AP Wirephoto.)

Jubilee Nurses Reunion

Royal Jubilee School of Nursing, Class of 1952 are holding a reunion this week and members will be arriving from as far east as Halifax and from San Francisco in the south.

Out of the class of 45 nurses, 31 will be taking part in the reunion.

And there will be about 63 children coming along with their mothers. They will have a special picnic on Saturday at the home of Mrs. Roderick Walker, 1295 Santa Rosa Avenue.

Registration will take place on Thursday evening, July 12. A tour of the hospital followed by tea will be held on Friday and that evening there will be a buffet supper at the home of Mrs. Rod Bolt, 1900 Cass March Crescent. A dinner dance will be held at the Club Soho on Saturday evening and after church service on Sunday a luncheon will be held at the home of Mrs. Douglas McDougall, 1269 St. Patrick Street.

From out of town will be Mrs. Ron Walker, Mrs. Fred Schindler and Mrs. Bruce Rinley, Toronto; Mrs. George Martinovich, Chicago; Miss Marj Young, Chalk River; Mrs. John Campbell, Halifax; Mrs. LeRoy Neufeld, Wasco, Calif.; Mrs. Ernie Anastasou, Calgary; Mrs. Grace Wickard and Mrs. Isobel Perry, Seattle; Mrs. Norman Vik, Kelowna; Mrs. Lloyd Saxton, San Francisco; Mrs. A. S. Wagstaff, Edmonton; Mrs. Pat Hayward, Vancouver; Mrs. Ray Stenger, North Vancouver; Mrs. J. Graham, Campbell River; Mrs. Chris Switzer, North Burnaby; Mrs. J. K. Williams, Union Bay and Mrs. Gordon Litster, Chemainus.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Botten, 1237 Judges Place, announce the engagement of their daughter, Deanne, to Mr. Lawrence Milton Cross, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Cross, 3091 Albany Road. The wedding will take place on August 25 at 3 p.m. in St. Mark's Anglican Church. The Rev.

Canon Robert Willis will officiate. Attendants will be, maid of honor, Miss Valerie MacPhail; bridesmaid, Miss Ruth Foster, and best man, Mr. J. H. Bronson. — (Miss Botten's photo by Meyers Studio; Mr. Cross, Kandid Kamera Studio.)

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I hope you can help me with my problem because you are involved, in a sense.

My 16-year-old daughter reads your column religiously. I'm pleased that she does because I believe your advice is good. Parents, of course, never know anything, but Ann Landers—well, that's a different story.

At the dinner table we often discuss your column. Our daughter can recite everything in it. The world could be aflame with war and unless it was mentioned in Ann Landers' column she wouldn't know it. She never looks at the front page, never reads a news story or an editorial.

I feel it is important for teenagers to keep up with local, national and international news. If you agree with me please say so in your column. Then I'll be certain she sees it. Thank you very much. — A FATHER.

Dear Father: I don't want to poke a finger in the eyes that read me but I agree with you wholeheartedly.

An interesting person is a well-informed person. But even more important, each of us shares in the responsibilities of citizenship and an enlightened electorate is essential to a stable society. This is the role of the news and editorial columns of our newspapers.

Of course I'm flattered when parents tell me their children turn to my column first, but for Pete's sake, kids, don't stop there!

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a career girl—single, 33, and a private secretary to a company president.

A few months ago a handsome, high-type salesman came into the office. He said he was a widower and asked me to join him for dinner. I accepted, and we hit it off immediately. After dinner we went to my apartment for a nightcap. He said my apartment was the most charming he had ever seen. He added sadly that his hotel room was dreary and depressing.

Laughing, he announced he was going to stay with me the next time he came through

Dear 33: What do you mean AGAIN? So far as I can see, it hasn't come YET.

A man who could lose a wife and two children in a single sentence is no good. This heel probably knows women with charming apartments all over the country. (These apartments are cheaper than hotel rooms, too.)

You were a fool. Admit it and tell him not to call you again.

The harvest moon is a popular name for the full moon that occurs about harvest time, around Sept. 23.

Women Plead For Space Trip

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — Congressman Victor Anfuso, a Brooklyn lawyer and father of five will play a prominent role in tussling with the question of whether women should be sent into outer space.

"After all, if we're going to colonize the planets, we'll need women and maybe we ought to get them ready for the trip, at least as passengers," says the New York Democrat.

Anfuso will head a special congressional subcommittee investigation July 17 to consider whether the U.S. should allow women to break the male monopoly on space flight.

Twelve determined women, all of whom have passed the same tests taken by the mercury project astronauts, are insisting on a chance to be rocketed to the moon and elsewhere.

"Well, after all," says Anfuso who professes no strong feelings about taking women out of the home, "the Russians have used female dogs."

FEMALE QUALITIES

While Anfuso hasn't made his implication too clear, Dr. W. Randolph Lovelace of the New Mexico Lovelace Foundation where the women underwent their endurance tests last year, says there are certain qualities that make the female preferable to the male.

"She weighs less, consumes less oxygen, needs less food and has proven herself to be better capable of standing psychological strains in certain stress conditions."

This was in particular reference to Jerrie Cobb, 31-year-old Oklahoma speed pilot who was one of those successfully passing the astronaut endurance tests.

"I'd even settle for a little suborbital flight," says Miss Cobb. "It would at least be a start."

But even more determined is 41-year-old Jane Hart, wife of a Michigan senator and mother of eight. Mrs. Hart, a licensed pilot, is the real force behind the women-in-space drive.

PLEADING LETTERS

For months she has been flooding legislators with letters pleading for a hearing and pointing out that since the 12 women passed their tests last year, nothing has happened. If the U.S. doesn't start training the women soon, she argued, Russia would achieve another first — by sending the first woman into orbit.

Mr. and Mrs. Neil D. McKechnie, 1932 St. Ann Street, announce the engagement of their third daughter, Ann Shireen McKechnie to Mr. Ronald Weldon Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Smith of Lynden, Wash. The wedding will take place on Aug. 17 in St. John's Anglican Church with the Rev. Canon George Biddle officiating. Both Miss McKechnie and Mr. Smith have their B.A. in Education from Western Washington State College in Bellingham. — (Miss McKechnie's photo by Martin Studio and Mr. Smith's by Jukes Studio.)

Queen Sends Congratulations

PARKSVILLE — A telegram of congratulations from Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth was among the many congratulatory messages received by Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Collins of Pym Road on the occasion of their diamond wedding anniversary on July 8.

Telegrams were also received from Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, the lieutenant-governor of Manitoba and members of the family in Winnipeg.

An "at home" was held at their residence on Pym Road and friends from all over the district called during the afternoon and evening to congratulate the couple. Miss Jean Collins presided as hostess and was assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Collins, Jr., of Vancouver.

CHRIST CHURCH

The Women's Parish Guild of Christ Church Cathedral will meet on Friday, July 13 at 2:30 p.m. in the Memorial Hall.

ver. Centering the table was a three tiered wedding cake made by Mr. and Mrs. Collins' daughter, Mrs. J. I. Moore of Winnipeg and decorated by Mrs. K. Levis of Parksville.

Mr. and Mrs. Collins were married in Glasgow, Scotland on July 8, 1912 and came to Canada in 1913.

Mr. and Mrs. Collins moved to Parksville in 1946 and have resided here ever since.

The Collins have two sons and two daughters, 11 grandchildren and 12 great grand children.

Enjoy Your Career

Miss Fay Wray, who is best known for her part as female lead in King Kong, arrived in Victoria Monday for a brief visit. Talking in her room at the Old England Inn, after a day's sightseeing, Miss Wray said simply, "I'd always heard about Victoria and just wanted to see it."

The Hollywood actress, who was born in Cardston, Alta., is returning from a trip to her home town. "I don't like the Hollywood night life," the attractive Miss Wray admitted, "and to me it is wonderful to be able to go back home and meet the people who knew my family." She only dimly remembers Cardston as she was two and a half when she left with her parents for the States. She has not been to western Canada since.

The former star now lives in Brentwood, western Los Angeles. "Do you know that I am now an Indian princess?" she asked and was proud to tell that when in Cardston she was as honored by the Indian tribe there.

"Although I am best known for my part in King Kong, it was not an enjoyable picture. It was too technical. I had to work with a hairy mechanical arm and the ape, of course, was only three feet high."

Acting has always been her first love, but Miss Wray also enjoys writing poetry and painting. "I always have writing ahead of me and when I have time I mean to write a book."

But she finds she has little spare time for relaxation. The last movie she appeared in was "Tammy and the Bachelor." She is currently making TV appearances. Asked about TV, Miss Wray says "it is not much different from movies. Just a little faster in production."

The petite, dark-haired woman remembers she rose to stardom quickly, but declares, "It was just progress." She played opposite Gary Cooper in Vickie who is interested in several films and was the heroine of many Hollywood productions.

"I would certainly do it all again, but not of course if it meant leaving my family. I said goodbye to my home life."

Miss Wray has three children: Susan who is 25 and a talented actress in her own right, Bob, 19, who loves photography, and 16-year-old her career.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Marsh, 1352 Carnesew Street, a couple who have lived for many years in Victoria, will be celebrating their golden wedding anniversary on Sunday, July 15. They will be at home to their friends on that day from 3 to 5 p.m. Mr. and Mrs. Marsh were married by the Rev. J. Campbell, in First Presbyterian Church in Victoria on July 17, 1912.

Evening Ceremony At Sooke Church

A white brocade gown, high-lighted by a black diamond necklace and a shoulder-length veil, was chosen by Miqueline Rose, Maurice Owen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Owen of Sooke Road, for her marriage to Bruce Arthur Eve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Eve of Charters Road, Sooke, Friday evening at the Knox Presbyterian Church, Rev. A. Beaton officiated.

Both the bride's dress and the brocade dress worn by her younger sister Patry, the junior bridesmaid, were made by the bride herself.

Other attendants were Miss Vera Banner, maid of honor; Miss Bernice Owen, bridesmaid, and Suzanne Owen, flower girl.

Church was decorated in pink and white flowers by Mrs. H. Wadams, Sooke. Mrs. F. Acreman played the organ and "Because" was sung by Mrs. J. Lindley, Sooke. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Eddy Eve, brother of the groom, and Larry Grunow were ushers. Ross Mustelt, Sooke, was best man.

At the reception held in the bride's parents' home, Harry B. Vogel, Vancouver, uncle of the bride, proposed the toast. The three-tier cake, set on a white tablecloth with candles on either side, was made by the bride.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mrs. Pat Huey, Prince George, Mrs. Vi Luckovich, Seattle, and Harry Vogel, Vancouver.

Leaving for the honeymoon up-Island and on the mainland the bride wore an off white suit, off of the groom, with pink accessories. Upon their return the couple will live in Sooke.

To Klondike By Scooter

TORONTO (CPI) — A woman with a spirit of adventure that would do credit to the adventures of '38 is off to the Klondike by motor scooter.

She said she has always wanted to see the Klondike and figured going by scooter was the most economical way. Her scooter is packed with 130 pounds of equipment including a sleeping bag, collapsible camp cot, tent, enough dehydrated food to last 2½ months ("It's dreadful but I'll pad it with fresh fish and raisins"), 22 rifle, fishing rod, tackle box, tool chest, clothes, axe, compass and first-aid kit.

A writer, she has given up her temporary job with a Toronto public relations firm and plans to work on a novel in the hours after each day of travel.

"If I run out of money, I'll work along the way," she says. "She hoped to reach Dawson City in two or three weeks, travelling on the Trans-Canada Highway to Edmonton and then heading up the Alaska Highway. After her trip to the Yukon she plans to keep on the move, scooting toward California.

Digitalis, a drug valuable in treating heart ailments, is derived from the poisonous plant foxglove.

Gillian Gore-Langton Bride of George Madill

Pink and white peonies decorated St. Paul's Naval and Garrison Church and lighted candles were on the altar when Gillian Dixie Gore-Langton and Mr. George Clifford Madill were married on Saturday evening.

Rev. J. A. Roberts officiated at the ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Monty Gore-Langton of Courtenay and the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Madill, 2786 Murry Drive.

Mrs. David Palmer played traditional organ music.

The fair haired bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in short white lace dress styled with square neckline, three quarter sleeves and satin cummerbund. A coronet of seed pearl and sequins held her elbow length embroidered veil and she carried a white bible topped with a spray of pink rosebuds and white carnations.

The attendants were Mrs. Norma Robson, aunt of the bride, and Miss Judy Handlen, her cousin. They wore short yellow lace dresses over satin and matching whimsie hats. Their colonial bouquets were of yellow rosebuds and white carnations.

The groom's young sister,

Maureen Madill, was flower girl and she was dressed in lace trimmed, white flowered nylon over green taffeta. Yellow rosebuds and white carnations were in her colonial bouquet.

Mr. Lewis Hadley was best man and Mr. David Robinson and Mr. Douglas Ross showed guests to the pews.

A reception followed at Four Mile House which was decorated with peonies, roses, delphiniums, daisies and poppies. The bride's table was centred with a three tiered cake and pink roses. Mr. Claude Butler acted as master of ceremonies and Mr. Guy Copley proposed the bridal toast.

For a wedding trip to the interior of the province the new Mrs. Madill travelled in a three piece beige linen suit, orchid whimsie hat, white accessories and corsage of pink rosebuds and white carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Madill will live at 1038 Dunford Road, Langford.

Pearl Sunburst 'Something Old'

Yellow gladiolus and white stocks decorated First Baptist Church for the recent wedding of Jeanette Lillian Rose, daughter of Mr. R. W. Smith and Mrs. Ada M. Smith of Victoria and Mr. Neil Charles Harrison, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Harrison of Victoria.

Rev. A. C. Hamill officiated at the afternoon ceremony. The bride chose a floor-length gown of white sheer over taffeta. Swiss embroidered lace topped the bodice and skirt. The dress swept to a slight train.

Fabric gardenias held her shoulder length illusion veil. "Something old was a pearl sunburst brooch belonging to the groom's 93 year-old grandmother. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses and ivy.

Matron of honor, Mrs. S. A. C. Franklin and bridesmaids, Mrs. E. B. Larsen and Mrs. R. E. Clements, were gowned alike in apricot taffeta featuring belled skirts. They wore toning accessories and mother-of-pearl earring and pin sets, the gift of the bride.

Flower girl, Jennifer Lynn Ralph wore an aqua mist nylon frock and a silver locket.

All attendants carried bouquets of yellow carnations and ivy. Soloist, Mr. Bernard Hawker and the choir sang, the processional, "Praise My Soul."

Mr. E. B. Larsen acted as best man and Mr. E. B. Clements and Mr. R. Cooper were ushers.

Multi-colored roses decorated tables at the reception held in the lower auditorium of the church. Mr. Hawker sang "I'll Walk Beside You."

Leaving on a honeymoon to the Okanagan and the Interior, the bride changed to a silk print dress with bell skirt. White accessories and yellow roses and stephanotis en corsage completed her outfit. The couple will make their home at 1010 Foul Bay Road.

Canada's National film Board has an annual production averaging 16,000,000 feet of special and documentary films.

Thousands Descend On Regina

REGINA (CP)—New groups of British doctors were to begin arriving by air Tuesday night to provide medical services as the government and Saskatchewan doctors remained locked in dispute over the province's medical care plan.

Algeria Rivals Hung Up

RABAT, Morocco (Reuters)—Rival Algerian leaders ended their talks Tuesday night without any indication of an agreement to end the split in the nationalist leadership.

Mohammed Yazid, minister of information in the Algerian provisional government who flew here with Rabah Bitat, minister of state, for talks with the government's dissident deputy premier, Ahmed Ben Bella, said he would return to Algiers today by way of Paris.

Meanwhile in Rocher-Noir, Algeria, it was reported that general elections to choose Algeria's first national assembly will be held Sunday, Aug. 12.

The assembly would frame the nation's first independent constitution.

Bonner Versus Perrault

Attack on Bennett 'Irresponsible'

Attorney-General Bonner yesterday blasted Liberal leader Ray Perrault for being "irresponsible and misleading" about B.C.'s financial situation.

He said B.C. voters would be unimpressed by the fact that Perrault was elected to the B.C. legislature by a narrow margin and added that if Mr. Perrault wasn't acting as a partisan politician he would be assuring people of the financial stability of this province.

LARGE SUMS

Mr. Bonner was commenting on statements by the Liberal that financial interests in the East were ready to invest large sums in B.C. as soon as Premier Bennett was removed from office.

"I am sure he (Mr. Perrault) has no authority to make any statement on behalf of any financial house anywhere," said the attorney-general.

Arson Tried In Kootenays

TRAIL (CP)—Arson attempts against an elementary school and a community hall and the firing of a barn in the Winlaw district of the West Kootenays were reported today by the RCMP's special Doukhoboi squad.

The attempts were made against the elementary school at Winlaw, 60 miles north of here, Sunday night and a non-Doukhoboi community hall in the noted Sons of Freedom sect community of Appleton a few miles away Monday night. A barn was destroyed at Winlaw Monday night.

Police said a routine patrol discovered a crude fire bomb set underneath the Winlaw school.

Officers said the attempt against the Appleton community hall was made by throwing gasoline over the back of the building and setting it afire. Residents doused the flames before much damage was done.

Five Tots Drown Close To Shore

LONG POINT BEACH, Ont. (CP)—Five Hamilton children were drowned here Tuesday when they were caught by undertow 20 yards out in Lake Erie off this provincial park resort.

Dead are Jayne Patricia, 11, her sister, Catherine, 8, and brother Harold Thomas, 9, Robert Ellis, 9, and Kenneth Valchuck, 10.

WATER CALMED

The children were camping with relatives and went into shallow, placid waters early in the afternoon.

Const. John Strba of the provincial police said the lake waters had been unusually rough in the past few days but had calmed slightly Tuesday afternoon.

Plane Drops Nuclear Device

WASHINGTON (AP)—An airplane-dropped nuclear test device was set off Tuesday in the vicinity of Christmas Island in the Pacific.

The Atomic Energy Commission and the department of defense announced the blast and said it was in the intermediate range, with a blast force ranging between 75,000 and 1,000,000 tons of TNT.

Weather Halts Explosion

NEVADA TEST SITE (UPI)—Adverse weather conditions forced postponement yesterday of a scheduled shallow underground nuclear explosion powerful enough to create a fireball effect.

The shot at the Atomic Energy Commission testing grounds here, 65 miles south-east of Las Vegas, was rescheduled for this morning.

More Dangerous

Churchill's Leg Has Blood Clot

LONDON (Reuters)—Sir Winston Churchill, 87, has a blood clot in the leg he injured in Monaco June 28, doctors disclosed Tuesday.

The doctors for the first time used the term "thrombosis," meaning blood clotting, instead of "phlebitis," a vein inflammation, to describe the condition that developed in Churchill's left leg after he fractured the thigh bone.

MORE DANGEROUS

Thrombosis and phlebitis are closely linked but thrombosis is more dangerous because the clot impedes free flow of blood. The doctors made it clear that the thrombosis was confined to the leg.

After an hour-long evening visit, Lady Churchill told reporters she found her husband "quite well." Asked if he had improved over the last two days, she said: "I would think so."

Fish Nets Cut By Red Sub

OSLO (Reuters)—Skippers of Norwegian and foreign trawlers have complained that a Russian submarine recently caused them to lose their nets and fish when it surfaced unexpectedly and cut their trawling lines. The newspaper Arbeiderbladet said Tuesday.

International Force Nikita's Aim

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Premier Khrushchev proposed Tuesday that Western troops in West Berlin be replaced by an East-West force under the United Nations.

The suggestion was considered virtually the only new proposal made by the Soviet leader in a marathon foreign policy speech.

Much of the rest of his speech to a Communist-sponsored peace congress was devoted to rejecting Western positions on disarmament, a nuclear test ban, a Berlin settlement and an international police force.

RAPE BLAST

He also used the speech as his first major platform for condemning the American high-altitude hydrogen blast over the Pacific Sunday night.

Khrushchev said the big explosion was part of an American test series that was being carried out despite the fact that "these experiments may have very dangerous consequences for the conditions of man's life."

NEEDED TO COOL

However, Khrushchev claimed that the test moratorium-breaking Soviet tests last fall were justified by the need "to cool off people whose heads had become hot about the German peace treaty" proposed by Russia.

He told the congress Russia still stood for a nuclear test ban.

NO ACTION

But he added: "No one can expect unilateral action from us."

As for the Berlin forces, Khrushchev said the American, British and French troops could be replaced by contingents from Denmark and Norway or Belgium and Holland plus Poland and Czechoslovakia.

"The idea was promptly rejected in Washington and London."

STRONG WORDS

Khrushchev's strident words in the two-hour, 25-minute speech were aimed at the growing Western military might.

He said the American leaders were trying to convince the American people and U.S. allies that the balance of strength had tipped in U.S. favor.

'Same Old Stuff'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States disclosed yesterday that it had already rejected the latest public proposal by Soviet Premier Khrushchev for getting United States, British and French troops out of West Berlin.

The state department also called "hypocritical" Khrushchev's criticism of American high-altitude nuclear explosions over the Pacific ocean.

Khrushchev's Berlin proposal and his criticism of the U.S. nuclear testing were covered in a speech he made at a peace congress meeting in Moscow Tuesday.

The state department said: "It has already been indicated to the Soviets that the particular variant mentioned by chairman Khrushchev yesterday does not provide a satisfactory basis for (Berlin) negotiations."

GOOD EVENING

"Good evening, Mr. Vice-President," Kappel said. "This is Fred Kappel speaking from Andover. This is the first call from the earth station through Telstar."

Johnson replied: "You're coming through nicely, Mr. Kappel. The progress of the satellite from the time of launch at Cape Canaveral by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration has been most gratifying to all Americans. Millions are gratified by this achievement which is another American first in space."

FIRST PICTURE

Then the first picture bounced off the 170-pound "switchboard in the sky" and back into the TV screens.

It showed the flag of the United States waving in the breeze over the Andover installation. The audio simultaneously played the "Star Spangled Banner."

SHOWING OFFICIALS

Then the first live pictures were transmitted from Washington showing congressmen and other officials watching the program.

Newton Minow, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, next went on live from Andover. Minow said he "couldn't be more thrilled—this is a great day."

"Today's efforts bring to people everywhere the benefit of the Telstar satellite."

Surprise! TV Leaps The Ocean

ANDOVER, Maine (UPI)—A history-making television program was sent into space and back into North America's sets last night and unexpectedly the picture spanned the Atlantic and was seen in Europe.

News pictures and news stories—including the dispatch you are reading now—also were transmitted into space and back via the Telstar satellite.

The United States put the satellite into orbit early Tuesday morning and on its sixth orbit last night began transmitting voice and television signals from the Andover control centre.

Pictures of Vice-President Lyndon Johnson and officials of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company came onto home sets in sharp, clear focus after going out more than 3,000 miles to the satellite and back.

PICTURE PICKED UP

Then word was flashed from France, and a few minutes later from England, that pictures had been picked up there.

The French receiver at Pleumeur Bodou on the Brittany coast said it appeared the sending station "looks like it is 25 or 30 miles away."

The historic breakthrough opened the way for live television to be broadcast across the oceans via satellites.

LIVE ON JULY 23

Such an exchange is now scheduled for July 23 with the United States sending a 15-minute live program to Europe and receiving a similar live broadcast back. (See Page 20.)

However, last night's British and French pickups had not been expected. The receivers at Pleumeur Bodou, France, and Goochill Down, England, managed to catch not only live TV sections of the program but the transmission of a still picture.

BOUNCED OFF

United Press International and Associated Press both sent dispatches aloft from Andover, Maine, and bounced them off Telstar at a rate of more than 1,000 words per minute. This dispatch was one of them.

As an indication of the speed of transmission, the above paragraph was sent on its journey more than 3,000 miles into space and 3,000 miles back again in less time than it took you to read it.

The first transmission to Telstar was by voice from AT & T chairman Frederick Kappel to Vice-President Johnson in Washington. Johnson was replying over a regular telephone.

GOOD EVENING

"Good evening, Mr. Vice-President," Kappel said. "This is Fred Kappel speaking from Andover. This is the first call from the earth station through Telstar."

Johnson replied: "You're coming through nicely, Mr. Kappel. The progress of the satellite from the time of launch at Cape Canaveral by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration has been most gratifying to all Americans. ## 'There's A Man's Face!'

LONDON (UPI)—The "switchboard satellite" relayed a "live" television picture from the United States to Europe for the first time in history last night and millions watched the communications breakthrough in awe.

The picture was of a man, apparently AT & T chairman Frederick Kappel, seated behind a desk. It lasted two minutes, then faded out.

The government's Goochill Down, Cornwall, receiving station picked up the signal in Britain. It was then broadcast throughout the nation over the BBC television network.

When the picture appeared on a monitor screen here, an announcer became so excited he shouted: "You saw it yourself. There's a man's face."

A few moments later, he said it was "incredible" and that while the picture was a bit distorted, it "definitely was a television" picture from 3,000 miles away.

The announcer was Richard Dimbleby. After the picture faded out, he relaxed a bit, and said with a sigh: "I'm glad I lasted this long to see a picture flashed across the Atlantic."

Less than three hours later, British technicians picked up their second picture via Telstar. A BBC spokesman said it lasted nine minutes and was "rather more encouraging than our first go."

U.S. Gives Six Bases To Canada

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. defence department said Tuesday a total of 80 U.S. military installations and facilities in 29 states and Canada have been declared surplus.

The department officials said disposal of the installations will save $5,410,000 a year in maintenance costs.

Six air force bases built in Canada for the North American Air Defence Command will be turned over to Canada, the department said.

Abolition of Grant, Dollar Devaluation Produce Problems

DUNCAN—"It seems to me the premier is flying a kite," said Mayor Jack Dobson, referring to a resolution from the executive of the Vancouver Island Municipality Association strongly opposing the provincial government's proposal to abolish grants to the municipalities.

The resolution will be introduced to the UBCM convention at Kamloops later this year. City council members feel, if the government's suggestion to repeal the Municipalities' Act from 1955 is realized, the city will suffer a $56,000 loss, creating an increase of 9.24 mills in the tax rate.

Council held that, with the government's failure to provide a court house and possible arrangements with a private party for a new liquor store, very little provincial property is left for taxation.

Ald. J. H. Saunders told council the hesitation of the provincial government to approve of plans for the new $3,655,586 Cowichan hospital might mean an increase in building costs because of the devaluation of the Canadian dollar.

Plans were submitted two months ago and the hospital board had been promised quick action from the government. Chairman of the hospital board Claude Green said Tuesday with no blank cheque to pay for the hospital any increase in costs will have to be approved again by taxpayers. Ald. Saunders said the tender for a road to the proposed hospital will be called in the near future.

Council agreed unanimously to give a grant of $500 to the Cowichan Fall Fair to be held in September.

Mayor Dobson said he was pleased, for this would be encouraging the many volunteers. "It is part of our community life and if we would not give our support how could we expect volunteers to work?"

Ald. Jim Patterson told council it won't be long before all wooden pipes will be replaced in Duncan. He added that the new library on Kenneth Street is ready for occupancy and "the city, the people and the Kinsmen Club should be proud of the excellent facilities."

Trying not to break faith with the local Kinsmen, council decided to fill and drain the wading pool at the latter's park daily, following last year's policy. With the financial help of some local organization council hopes to install a water purification system at the pool next year.

With some reasonable consideration from taxpayers, Duncan will enjoy another summer without sprinkling regulations, Mayor Dobson said.

For the last three years Duncan has been one of the few centres with no restriction during the dry season.

Council approved of the lowest bid from Duncan contractor W. McQuhae of $1,242 for painting the old fire hall, the library and the city garage.

Around the Island

Two Leap to Safety

PORT HARDY (CP)—

A man and his wife leaped to safety in their night attire when fire swept their big pleasure cruiser at this northern Vancouver Island port Monday night.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bradshaw of Billings Bay, Nelson Island, were almost trapped by the blaze which broke out in the engine room of their 45-foot cruiser Adventus at her mooring.

Firemen had to sink the $35,000 cruiser to douse the intense flames.

Extent of damage will not be known until the boat is raised.

NANAIMO — The appointment of R. H. Purdy, Nanaimo, as magistrate for Ladysmith and Chemainus and judge of the juvenile court for Ladysmith and Nanaimo county has been announced by the provincial cabinet.

The previous magistrate at Ladysmith, William H. Bryant, recently retired.

PORT ALBERNI—The city's playground program is under way and has attracted twice as many children as the initial program in 1961, according to recreation commission chairman Ald. Earle Bowen.

He announced at council meeting Monday night that six girls have been trained to conduct the playground activities.

Ald. Bowen also reported that a treatment with silica dust had been used to overcome the slippery conditions at the wading pool and swim pool in Recreation Park. He said more than 4,000 youngsters have gone through the gates of the pool since the swimming season started.

NANAIMO—Newcastle Island was the scene of a picnic on Sunday at which Maurice Kushner, recently retired leader of the Nanaimo Symphony, was the guest of honor. The affair was organized by Mrs. Nancy Heath and Bob Evans, and guests and friends were present from Courtenay, Port Alberni, Duncan, Victoria and Nanaimo.

PORT ALBERNI—Department of education approval has been received by District 70 school board for contracts on three school building projects here.

Port Alberni Home Builders Ltd. has already started work on the three-room Faber Road school and Southern Construction Ltd. is reported ready to begin the addition and alterations at Calgary Elementary.

PORT ALBERNI—The Gyro free swimming classes got under way at the city pool Tuesday morning with approximately 700 children enrolled.

Eight instructors have been trained for the project which is being supervised by Ray Kimoto.

Gyro Bob Cummings was in charge of lining up the program for his organization.

NANAIMO — Many novel and entertaining events will feature the carnival set for Departure Bay on July 19, 20, 21.

An Indian canoe, manned by a white crew, "The White Warriors," will be one racing in a regatta, in which Indian crews and canoes from many parts of the island may participate.

In addition there will be a long-distance swimming race, square dancing and the usual rides and games.

NANAIMO — City council at its meeting on Monday afternoon accepted the recommendation of the advisory planning commission that Miss Mary Rawson of Vancouver be engaged to carry out the work of planning the area in the vicinity of the new hospital.

Miss Rawson will co-ordinate her efforts with two provincial government planners who are now making a study of the nearby unorganized area.

PORT ALBERNI—The city's volunteer fire department was congratulated by Mayor Loran Jordan for efficient action in fighting the fire at the Mowat apartment building last Saturday.

Mayor Jordan said "the firemen did a good job. They were efficient with their use of salvage covers with the result that nearly all the furniture was saved."

NANAIMO—Police here are investigating acts of vandalism against a cement firm south of the city.

Three weeks ago the firm's screening machine was sabotaged to the tune of $300. During the weekend the motor of one of the vehicles was drained of oil, then started up and left running.

COURTENAY — Of nine small boats checked by RCMP and RCAF personnel here recently, none carried the necessary

Report Claims

Youth Home
Primitive,
Fire Trap

Overcrowding, fire danger, primitive facilities and lack of means with which to separate hardened delinquents from first offenders were conditions outlined at city hall yesterday in the annual report on Greater Victoria's juvenile detention home.

Detention home supervisor Charles Ball cites the conditions to back a strong plea for an early start on construction of a new juvenile detention home.

LARGER HOME

Present plans call for construction of a larger detention home behind Spencerhouse in the end of this year but financing arrangements include federal grants for winter works.

There is no assurance the federal government will implement a winter works program this year.

CRIME-BREEDING

Mr. Ball's report echoes complaints about the detention home in 1957 when Col. W. S. Dingley — then superintendent — said bluntly the home was a breeding ground for crime.

Col. Dingley eventually resigned his position because of conditions at the home.

Points made in Mr. Ball's report for 1961 include:

- The home has been condemned by Fire Chief James Bayliss.

- Unexpected increase in the number of delinquent girls sometimes forced authorities to hold delinquent boys in the city jail.

- It is a constant battle to maintain discipline and control without proper facilities.

- Inmates continue to damage the home.

- "There is no enclosed area outside for exercise or recreation use."

- The basement area, where the boys are confined, has no ventilation. Windows are barred and secured.

- Girls are restricted to the kitchen or locked in their bedrooms depending on behavior.

- Security risks, trouble-makers in the home, juvenile drunks and at times the overflow, have to be held in the city jail.

Statistics for 1961 show the number of juvenile boys admitted to the home was 95, compared with 121 in 1960. The number of girls admitted was 35, compared with 20 for the previous year.

Water
'Strict'

PORT ALBERNI — Water restrictions will be rigidly enforced in Port Alberni, an announcement at council meeting Monday night said.

Mayor Loran Jordon said it had been hoped restrictions would not have to be imposed this year but, as they had been necessary pending completion of the new water main, charges will be laid in the event of infractions.

IT'S NOT FAIR

"It's not fair when 98 per cent of the population cooperate while the miserable two per cent refuse to abide by the rules," the mayor said. Ald. Bob Dalton, head of the water committee, said a delay in delivery of valves had held up the project. Superintendent Len Crowshaw said delivery of the valves was expected by the end of the week and installation should be completed by July 23, making it possible to put the new line into use.

LETTER INQUIRES

A letter from West Coast General Hospital inquired about the new water rate schedule which had resulted in a bi-monthly bill for $315.62 for a consumption of 187,951 gallons, while in the same period of 1961 the bill had been $101.62 for 156,538 gallons. The hospital board will receive a letter explaining the reasons for including a commercial category in the water rate structure. Mayor Jordon said rates charged here are still among the lowest on Vancouver Island.

Road in the Hole
Inverted Hump Makes Engineers Jump

Esquimalt engineers are about ready to burn their office copy of the old motto, "If a job's worth doing it's worth doing well."

In its place may go another one, "Leave well enough alone."

It all started when the municipality embarked on a simple local improvement paving project in the 1200 block Lockley Road.

There was a four-foot-high hump in the road and no engineer likes the idea of paving a hump.

So in the interests of sound workmanship and happy ratepayers out came the hump.

But under the hump was a large mass of blue clay. Blue clay is anathema to roadbuilders because it is unstable, so out it came — or more accurately out it started to come.

By yesterday the 1200 block Lockley boasted a hole 10 feet deep and crowds of petulant youngsters were crowded around wondering how long it would be before Mao Tse-tung poked his head up through the bottom.

What with the cost of the hump and the cost of the blue clay the tab on the little neighborhood project has soared $5,000.

But it will end happily. The municipality will pick up the bill for the extra cost relieving local residents of an unpleasant surprise, and the blue clay (3,000 tons of it) is being used to create a school playing field.

Camp Puts Sail
Into Sailing
For Sea Cadets

COMOX — HMCS Quadra, is always a motor cutter with a rescue crew standing by, and each cadet must have on a life jacket before stepping into the boats.

Commodore P. D. Taylor, CD, RCN, commanding officer naval divisions, from Hamilton, was a keen observer during a recent informal inspection of the establishment.

Accompanied by Lt. Cmdr. R. L. Gladwin, commanding officer of Quadra, Commodore Taylor saw all phases of a "day in the life of a cadet at summer camp." He was particularly interested in a colorful chart on the parade square which graphically shows inter-divisional competition.

Trophies passed out at the end of each training period are well earned.

COWICHAN — The fame of Cowichan Valley's beauty and charm has spread far beyond the Canadian border. Recently the secretary of the Cowichan Agricultural Society received a letter from Rifat Yavuz of Istanbul, looking for a gardener's job here.

The 30-year-old Turk says in his letter, "I can create artistic gardens and can produce many kinds of flowers and vegetation. Please help me to fulfill the dream of my heart to work in your country."

A married man, Mr. Yavuz writes he has 15 years' experience in gardening.

Alberni Mayor Disturbed Charities Hurt
By Ban on Bingo

ALBERNI — The attorney-general's directive to RCMP to enforce laws governing bingo games will result in a definite loss to the communities, Mayor Fred Bishop said at council meeting Monday night.

He spoke of inconsistencies in the Canadian Criminal Code which permit gambling on horse racing while making bingo illegal. All local games of a regular nature will be stopped in line with the attorney-general's directive.

CHARITIES LOSE

Enforcement will mean the loss of funds which had been raised for charitable purposes in the communities, he said.

The matter was referred to committee for discussion of the possibility of the council being able to take action.

During the meeting, Mayor Bishop reported on a meeting with Attorney-General Robert Bonner at which he had suggested that another RCMP constable be stationed in Alberni to assist with policing of outlying districts. A letter will be sent from council to Mr. Bonner.

Outlining the reasons why it is considered that the force should be enlarged with no additional cost to the city.

REVITALIZE CD

City clerk James Sawyer reported approximately 80 per cent of current taxes had been paid. At the same date last year the figure had been 82 per cent.

Council voted to invest a temporary surplus of $125,000 in time bank deposits to receive advantage of higher rates.

Mayor Bishop, recently returned from a civil defence course for Canadian mayors and reeves in Amherst, Ont., said that every attempt should be made to revitalize the local CD organization. He proposed a joint meeting with Mayor Loran Jordon, Port Alberni, and civil defence co-ordinator Ben Thurston.

Chamber to Query
Westwood on Parks

PORT ALBERNI — Recreation Minister Westwood will be asked to explain, as a Chamber of Commerce meeting here in August, his department's policies in connection with obtaining park sites.

Ald. Earl Bowen, reporting on a joint meeting of city and chamber parks committees, said the decision to send the invitation was made after discussion of the proposed development of China Creek estuary.

STARTED ACTION

About 18 months ago the parks branch had started action to obtain the property from MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. Negotiations are not yet completed.

Ald. Bowen suggested interest in the subject of parkland acquisition was province wide.

Doctors
'Too Busy'

PORT ALBERNI — The local medical association will be queried on the matter of attendance of one of the members when the ambulance answers an emergency call.

Mayor Loran Jordon, who reported doctors had been "too busy to attend" when the ambulance had been called for two heart attack victims in recent weeks, said he would sign the letter.

Mayor Jordon contended ambulance attendants should not be given responsibility for deciding whether such patients should be moved.

He said the twin cities had 18 or 19 doctors and at least one of them should have had time to respond to the emergency calls.

Saanich Vetoes
Road Project

Saanich public works committee last night rejected a petition requesting improvement of Old West Saanich Road from Oldfield to West Saanich Road on grounds it would be too costly and brush along the roadside will be cleared under the coming winter works program.

SAFETY FIRST: Seems quite a few drivers are prejudiced about the use of seat belts in their cars.

City insurance man Bert Butler points out the average driver is apathetic to seat belts and avoids tightly to any excuse to hold installing and using them.

He sends along this fact and fiction dopesheet.

The Claim: "I wouldn't be comfortable strapped in my car."

The Fact: Most drivers come to appreciate the support seat belts give them and actually miss it when riding in cars not equipped with them.

The Claim: "If I'm in an accident, I want to be thrown clear of the car."

The Fact: The likelihood of death or serious injury is five times greater if you are thrown out of your car in an accident.

The Claim: "I sure don't want to be trapped in my car in case of fire or if it ends up in the water."

The Fact: Since seat belts reduce the possibility and extent of injuries, you're likely to be in much better condition to effect your escape from a car in such circumstances if you're wearing a belt.

Also, only one-half of one per cent of all traffic accidents involve fire or submersion.

The Claim: "Seat belts are unnecessary on short trips in urban areas at lower speeds."

The Fact: Of all fatal accidents, 45 per cent occur at speeds under 40 miles an hour; 65 per cent under 50 miles an hour. And over 50 per cent of all accidents occur in urban areas.

Bonner Sees
Bingo 'Tests'

Likelihood of a number of "test case" court actions over the operations of bingo games in B.C. was stressed yesterday by Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

And "regular bingo games" operated by organizations may be a thing of the past.

Mr. Bonner was explaining the possible courses that might be followed in the wake of a survey by his department and the RCMP of the gaming house and lottery sections of the Criminal Code of Canada.

"Local law enforcement agencies and prosecutors are being asked to warn organizations of questionable conduct where appropriated," declared the attorney-general. "It is anticipated that one or two test cases may result, by arrangement, where contention exists as to what the law provides."

Mr. Bonner offered three "guidelines" to interested organizations.

He said religious or charitable groups not incorporated as bona fide social clubs may operate bingo games only "occasionally" — a word which has caused difficulty in interpretation.

"Occasionally" is, however, opposed to "customary," said Mr. Bonner.

Not Occasional

An organization operating one night a week every other week over a period of time could not be considered as "occasionally," he pointed out.

A suggestion has been made that a large parent organization (being bound by the occasional clause) may legally form numerous spin-off groups under its control and thereby each group could hold occasional games, albeit on the same premises and with proceeds going to the same general purpose," he continued. "While it would appear that this is a course of action for the purpose of circumventing the law, the legality of such a procedure may have to be examined by a test case," said Mr. Bonner.

The attorney-general said newspaper and radio bingo games, offering cash or other valuable security, "may violate" sections of the Criminal Code.

Legal Advice Urged

"The disposition of property by any mode of chance is suspect and where goods or merchandise are disposed of by any game of chance, or mixed chance and skill, organizations should obtain legal advice of possible violations of Section 171 (f) of the Canadian Criminal Code," he said.

Mr. Bonner also said that incorporated social clubs under the Societies Act of B.C. may operate bingo games on a customary basis but individual members of the clubs may be charged only 10 cents an hour or 50 cents a day to play.

"All operating expenses must be paid from these fees," said Mr. Bonner.

He added that where a jackpot is provided by the players, in addition to the other charges, "it is arguable" that a violation of the Criminal Code may be the result.

The survey into bingo operations was promised by Mr. Bonner during the last session of the legislature.

Detailed outline of the department's views have been sent out to all law enforcement agencies.

NANAIMO — A contract worth $20,536 for wharf repairs at Ganges has been awarded to the Harbor Pile Driving Co. of Nanaimo, former Conservative MP Bus Matthews said.

Two other local projects —

Tenders were returnable yesterday for renewal of a float on Sydney Island.

THE THINGS WE HEAR:

"Big Bad John's" — the country barn-style cocktail bar gimmick thought up by John Olson — has been such a success that John is now thinking of remodeling the Pit bar at the Strathcona.

CHEK — TV's coverage of the Pacific National Exhibition in Vancouver last year was so successful the local station's cameras will be back there again this year with plans for more than 80 hours of live telecasting.

RECREATION MINISTER — Karl Westwood announced the $2 a day camping fee would go into effect in many parks last June 15. The other day he remembered until a cabinet order was passed it wasn't legal. Order was approved yesterday.

FISH SCALES:

A halibut fishboat struck pay dirt up the coast the other week.

An excited fisherman spread the news over the radio network.

"I've got 10,000 pounds on board and I'm going to stay here till I get 15,000 pounds," he yelled.

He kept on pulling more and more fish aboard.

The fisherman was duly rescued by a passing boat. His own vessel sank under his load.

IDEAL THOUGHT: The way Americans were streaming out of the city yesterday was enough to convince skeptics the tourists were taking B.C. highways literally — that Victoria is the gateway to Vancouver Island!

Algeria Rivals Hung Up

RABAT, Morocco (Reuters)—Rival Algerian leaders ended their talks Tuesday night without any indication of an agreement to end the split in the nationalist leadership.

Mohammed Yazid, minister of information in the Algerian provisional government who flew here with Rabah Bitat, minister of state, for talks with the government's dissident deputy premier, Ahmed Ben Bella, said he would return to Algiers today by way of Paris.

Meanwhile in Rocher-Noir, Algeria, it was reported that general elections to choose Algeria's first national assembly will be held Sunday, Aug. 12.

The assembly would frame the nation's first independent constitution.

Attack on Bennett 'Irresponsible'

Attorney-General Bonner yesterday blasted Liberal leader Ray Perrault for being "irresponsible and misleading" about B.C.'s financial situation.

He said B.C. voters would be unimpressed by the fact that Bonner was trying to over-throw B.C.'s elected government and added that if Mr. Perrault wasn't acting as a partisan politician he would be assuring people of the financial stability of this province.

LARGE SUMS

Mr. Bonner was commenting on statements by the Liberal that financial interests in the East were ready to invest large sums in B.C. as soon as Premier Bennett was removed from office.

"I am sure he (Mr. Perrault) has no authority to make any statement on behalf of any financial house anywhere," said the attorney-general.

BEST IN YEARS

Dominion Bureau of Statistics figures showed that investment in B.C. this year promised to be the best in three years, he said.

Mr. Bonner also hit out at Mr. Perrault's demand for an audit of the government's books.

Arson Tried In Kootenays

TRAIL (CP)—Arson attempts against an elementary school and a community hall and the firing of a barn in the West Kootenay were reported Tuesday by the RCMP's special Daubholzer squad.

The attempts were made against the elementary school at Winlaw, 50 miles north of here, Sunday night and a non-Daubholzer community hall in the noted Sons of Freedom sect community of Appleton a few miles away Monday night. A barn was destroyed at Winlaw Monday night.

Police said a routine patrol discovered a crude fire bomb set underneath the Winlaw school.

Officers said the attempt against the Appleton community hall was made by throwing gasoline over the back of the building and setting it afire. Residents doused the flames before much damage was done.

Five Drown Near Shore

LONG POINT BEACH, Ont. (CP)—Five Hamilton children were drowned here Tuesday when they were caught by undertow 20 yards out in Lake Erie off this provincial park resort.

Dead are Jayne Patricia, 11, her sister, Catherine, 8, and brother Harold Thomas, 9, Robert Ellis, 9, and Kenneth Valchuck, 10.

WATER CALMED

The children were camping with relatives and went into shallow, placid waters early in the afternoon.

Const. John Strba of the provincial police said the lake waters had been unusually rough in the past few days but had calmed slightly Tuesday afternoon.

HUMAN CHAINS

He said a swimmer spotted one body in the water and shouted for help. Human chains were formed to comb the water and the four other bodies were recovered.

Const. Strba said the children, none of whom were good swimmers, went into the water about half a mile away from the closest life guard at a supervised provincial park beach.

Plane Drops Nuclear Device

WASHINGTON (AP)—An airplane-dropped nuclear test device was set off Tuesday in the vicinity of Christmas Island in the Pacific.

The Atomic Energy Commission and the department of defense announced the blast and said it was in the intermediate range, with a blast force ranging between 20,000 and 1,000,000 tons of TNT.

Weather Halts Explosion

NEVADA TEST SITE (UPI)—Adverse weather conditions forced postponement yesterday of a scheduled shallow underground nuclear explosion powerful enough to create a fireball effect.

The shot at the Atomic Energy Commission testing grounds here, 85 miles south-east of Las Vegas, was rescheduled for this morning.

More Dangerous

Churchill's Leg Has Blood Clot

LONDON (Reuters)—Sir Winston Churchill, 87, has a blood clot in the leg he injured in Monaco June 28, doctors disclosed Tuesday.

The doctors for the first time used the term "thrombosis," meaning blood clotting, instead of "phlebitis," a vein inflammation, to describe the condition that developed in Churchill's left leg after he fractured the thigh bone.

MORE DANGEROUS

Thrombosis and phlebitis are closely linked but thrombosis is more dangerous because the clot impedes free flow of blood. The doctors made it clear that the thrombosis was confined to the leg.

After an hour-long evening visit, Lady Churchill told reporters she found her husband "quite well." Asked if he had improved over the last two days, she said: "I would think about the same, but you could say he was a little better."

The domestic news agency Exchange Telegraph said the switch in terms was made because swelling in the left leg has gone down and it now is safe to use "thrombosis" without causing undue alarm.

Fish Nets Cut By Red Sub

OSLO (Reuters)—Skippers of Norwegian and foreign trawlers have complained that a Russian submarine recently caused them to lose their nets and fish when it surfaced unexpectedly and cut their trawling lines, the newspaper Arbeiderbladet said Tuesday.

International Force Nikita's Aim

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Premier Khrushchev proposed Tuesday that Western troops in West Berlin be replaced by an East-West force under the United Nations flag.

The suggestion was considered virtually the only new proposal made by the Soviet leader in a marathon foreign policy speech.

Much of the rest of his speech to a Communist-sponsored peace congress was devoted to rejecting Western positions on disarmament, a nuclear test ban, a Berlin settlement and an international police force.

RAPS BLAST

He also used the speech as his first major platform for condemning the American high-altitude hydrogen blast over the Pacific Sunday night.

Khrushchev said the big explosion was part of an American test series that was being carried out despite the fact that "these experiments may have very dangerous consequences for the conditions of man's life."

NEEDED TO COOL

However, Khrushchev claimed that the test memorandum-breaking Soviet tests last fall were justified by the need "to cool off people whose heads had become hot about the German peace treaty" proposed by Russia.

He told the congress Russia still stood for a nuclear test ban.

NO ACTION

But he added: "No one can expect unilateral action from us."

As for the Berlin forces, Khrushchev said the American, British and French troops could be replaced by contingents from Denmark and Norway or Belgium and Holland plus Poland and Czechoslovakia.

STRONG WORDS

Khrushchev's strongest words in the two-hour, 55-minute speech were aimed at the growing Western military might.

He said the American leaders were trying to convince the American people and U.S. allies that the balance of strength had tipped in U.S. favor.

'Same Old Stuff'

Britain Remains Firm Rejects Red Proposal

LONDON (AP)—A foreign office spokesman swiftly rejected Soviet Premier Khrushchev's proposal yesterday to replace American-British French troops in West Berlin with a garrison from smaller Western powers and Communist satellites.

The spokesman recalled that only five days ago Joseph God-ben, minister of state for foreign affairs, told Parliament: "The continued presence of Western forces is not a negotiable factor because we believe that it is essential."

The foreign office spokesman, commenting directly on Khrushchev's proposal, said: "We stand by Mr. Godben's statement."

It's Election Time Again!

CORNWALL (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker has "no right" to represent Canada at the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference in London without first calling Parliament into session, Liberal MP Paul Martin said Tuesday night.

Addressing a rally of about 200 persons in support of Lucien Lamoureux, Liberal candidate in next Monday's Stormont riding election, Mr. Martin said:

"In view of the fact he now heads a minority government, Mr. Diefenbaker has no right to go to the prime ministers' conference without having summoned Parliament and told Parliament the attitude he is going to follow at that conference."

The conference, scheduled to open Sept. 10, is to discuss Britain's proposed entry into the European Common Market.

Mr. Martin said that for Canada, "everything depends" on pursuing the right attitude towards the Common Market.

Socred Firebrand Thunders at Rally

CORNWALL, Ont. (UPI)—The Social Credit party carried a double-barrelled campaign into the Stormont riding last night in an attempt to prove it was not a Cinderella party.

New Democratic Leader T. C. Douglas drew 400 to a meeting in a church hall Monday night.

TELSTAR SPANS ATLANTIC

ANDOVER, Maine (UPI)—A history-making television program was sent into space and back into North America's sets last night and unexpectedly the picture spanned the Atlantic and was seen in Europe.

News pictures and news stories—including the dispatch you are reading now—also were transmitted into space and back via the Telstar satellite.

View from U.K.

'There's A Man's Face!'

See program phase, Page 10

Then word was flashed from France, and a few minutes later from England, that pictures had been picked up there. The French receiver at Pleumeur Bodou on the Brittany coast said it appeared the sending station "looks like it is 25 or 30 miles away."

The historic breakthrough opened the way for live television to be broadcast across the oceans via satellites.

LIVE ON JULY 23

Such an exchange is now scheduled for July 23 with the United States sending a 15-minute live program to Europe and receiving a similar live broadcast back.

However, last night's British and French pickups had not been expected. The receivers at Pleumeur Bodou, France, and Goomhilly Downs, England, managed to catch not only live TV sections of the program but the transmission of a still picture.

BOUNCED OFF

United Press International and Associated Press both sent dispatches aloft from Andover, Maine, and bounced them off Telstar at a rate of more than 1,000 words per minute. This dispatch was one of them.

As an indication of the speed of transmission, the above paragraph was sent on its journey more than 3,000 miles into space and 3,000 miles back again in less time than it took you to read it.

The first transmission to Telstar was by voice from AT & T chairman Frederick Kappel to Vice-President Johnson in Washington. Johnson was replying over a regular telephone.

'GOOD EVENING'

"Good evening, Mr. Vice-President," Kappel said. "This is Fred Kappel speaking from Andover. This is the first call from the earth station through Telstar."

Johnson replied: "You're coming through nicely, Mr. Kappel. The progress of the satellite from the time of launch at Cape Canaveral by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration has been most gratifying to all Americans. Millions are gratified by this achievement which is another American first in space."

FIRST PICTURE

Then the first picture bounced off the 170-pound "switchboard in the sky" and back into the TV screens.

It showed the flag of the United States waving in the breeze over the Andover installation.

Then the first live pictures were transmitted from Washington showing congressmen and other officials watching the program.

Newton Minow, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, next went on live from Andover. Minow said he "couldn't be more thrilled—this is a great day."

"Today's efforts bring to people everywhere the benefit

*****

LONDON (UPI)—The "switchboard satellite" Telstar relayed a "live" television picture from the United States to Europe for the first time in history last night and millions watched the communications breakthrough in awe.

The picture was of a man, apparently AT & T chairman Frederick Kappel, seated behind a desk. It lasted two minutes, then faded out.

The government's Goomhilly Downs, Cornwall, receiving station picked up the signal in Britain. It was then broadcast throughout the nation over the BBC television network.

When the picture appeared on a monitor screen here, an announcer became so excited he shouted:

"You saw it yourself. There's a man's face."

A few moments later, he said it was "intriguing" and that while the picture was a bit distorted, it "definitely was a television" picture from 3,000 miles away.

The announcer was Richard Dimbleby. After the picture faded out, he relaxed a bit, and said with a sigh:

"I'm glad I lasted this long (to see a picture flashed across the Atlantic)."

Less than three hours later, British technicians picked up their second picture via Telstar. A BBC spokesman said it lasted nine minutes and was "rather more encouraging than our first go."

U.S. Gives Six Bases To Canada

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. defense department said Tuesday a total of 30 U.S. military installations and facilities in 29 states and Canada have been declared surplus.

The department officials said disposal of the installations will save $5,410,000 a year in maintenance costs.

Six air force bases built in Canada for the North American Air Defense Command will be turned over to Canada, the department said.
